Ike Sidesteps M'Carthy Fight

Red China Leader Angered By Pact

Calls U. S.-Formosa Agreement "Grave Provocation" Of Reds

TOKYO, Thursday, Dec. 9 (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China today called the U. S.-Nationalist mutual defense treaty "a grave provocation against the People's Republic of China."

And unless the United States withdraws its forces from Nationalist Formosa and Formosa Strait "it must take upon itself all the grave consequences," Chou declared in a statement broadcast by Peiping radio.

"On behalf of the government of the People's Republic of China,' Chou said, "I hereby declare:

In China Territory

"Taiwan (Formosa) is China's territory and (president) Chiang Kai-shek (of Nationalist China) is the public enemy of the Chinese people.

"To liberate Taiwan and liquidate the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique is a matter which falls entirely within the scope of China's sovereignty and internal affairs and no interference of any foreign country will be tolerated."

It was Chou's second attack of the week on the treaty signed last week in Washington under which the United States would protect Formosa and the nearby Pescadores from Red invasion.

Chou repeated his charge made Monday at a diplomatic reception that the treaty was designed to "legalize" U.S. "armed seizure of China's territory of Taiwan" and "to extend its aggression against China and prepare a new war."

No Legal Basis

The Premier, who also is foreign minister, asserted the defense pact "has no legal basis whatever and is null and void." He styled it "a treaty of war and aggression."

"Threats of war," Chou said, "cannot shake the determination of the Chinese people to liberate Taiwan; they can only heighten the indignation of the Chinese people."

The Premier accused the United States of fortifying and building bases on Formosa and the Pescadores while shielding the Nationalist forces which attack along Red China's coast.

Sen. Butler Says Attack On Ike By M'Carthy 'Uncalled For'

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Sen. Butler (R-Md) who voted against censure of Sen. McCarthy, today called the Wisconsin Republican's criticism of the President "unfortunate and uncalled for."

"Being the author and chief sponsor of the Subversive Control Act of 1954, which was overwhelmingly approved by the Congress in the last session, I can competently say that the Eisenhower administration was very effective and vigorous in support of that legislation," Butler said.

"I therefore feel that the statement by the senator from Wisconsin is most unfortunate and uncalled for."

Political Refugees Welcome In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Refugees from Communist "political and religious persecution" will always be welcome in the United States, the American government bluntly informed Poland's Red regime today.

The State Department released a note, delivered in Warsaw, rejecting Polish protests against seizure of two Polish-flag vessels by the Chinese Nationalist navy in the Far East and against the granting of asylum to crew members by the United States.

UN Political Group Backs Allied Stand

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The U.N. Political Committee endorsed today the Allied stand on Korea at the Geneva conference. It blamed the Communists for the fact that the Korean peace talks there failed.

The committee passed and sent to the General Assembly a resolution approving a report from the 15 U.N. Korean-War Allies that took part in the talks with the Soviet Union, Red China and North Korea last April 16-June 15.

The resolution also reaffirmed the U.N.'s aim of peaceful democratic unification of Korea, expressed hope for progress toward this and handed the problem on to next year's Assembly session, to start in late September.

The resolution passed, 50-5. This guaranteed it the necessary two-thirds vote in the full Assembly, where the same 60 nations sit. Only the Soviet bloc opposed it. Burma, India, Saudi Arabia and Syria abstained.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) told the committee the United States was not closing the door to further discussions with the Communists on Korea. But he said a new conference would be useless "if they intend to repeat the same things they said at Geneva and have said here."

Britain Agrees To Industry Link

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Britain and six Western European nations agreed today to consult with each other with the aim of linking for the first time in history this island kingdom's coal and steel industry with the European Community pool.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons only "minor textual matters" remain to be ironed out and terms of the treaty will be disclosed in a government white paper soon.

Secret negotiations on the treaty have been going on for the last three months.

British officials said the new agreements calls for setting up a permanent "Council of Association" to consult on common policies in the production and sale of the two great basic commodities supporting Britain and the continent—coal and steel.

Four British and four European Community representatives will sit on the council, which probably will meet alternately in London and Luxembourg. The latter is headquarters of the six - nation community in which France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy and Luxembourg have pooled their coal and steel output.

Decisions of the proposed council will not be binding on Britain or the pool countries. Britain's participation will stop short of actual membership.

Woman Reporter Kidnaped From News Room By Printer

LA PORTE, Ind., Dec. 8 (AP)—The editorial staff of the La Porte Herald-Argus had a story dumped right in its lap on its afternoon deadline today as a gun-toting apprentice printer kidnaped a young woman reporter from the news room.

The printer, Robert Panek, 25, returned the reporter, 22-year-old Abbey Johnson, to the newspaper office unharmed an hour and 40 minutes later and then drove off in the car in which he had carried her away.

As a police search was under way for him he walked into the La Porte police station and surrendered another hour and a half later.

Miss Johnson was too unnerved upon her return to give a clear account of her experience.

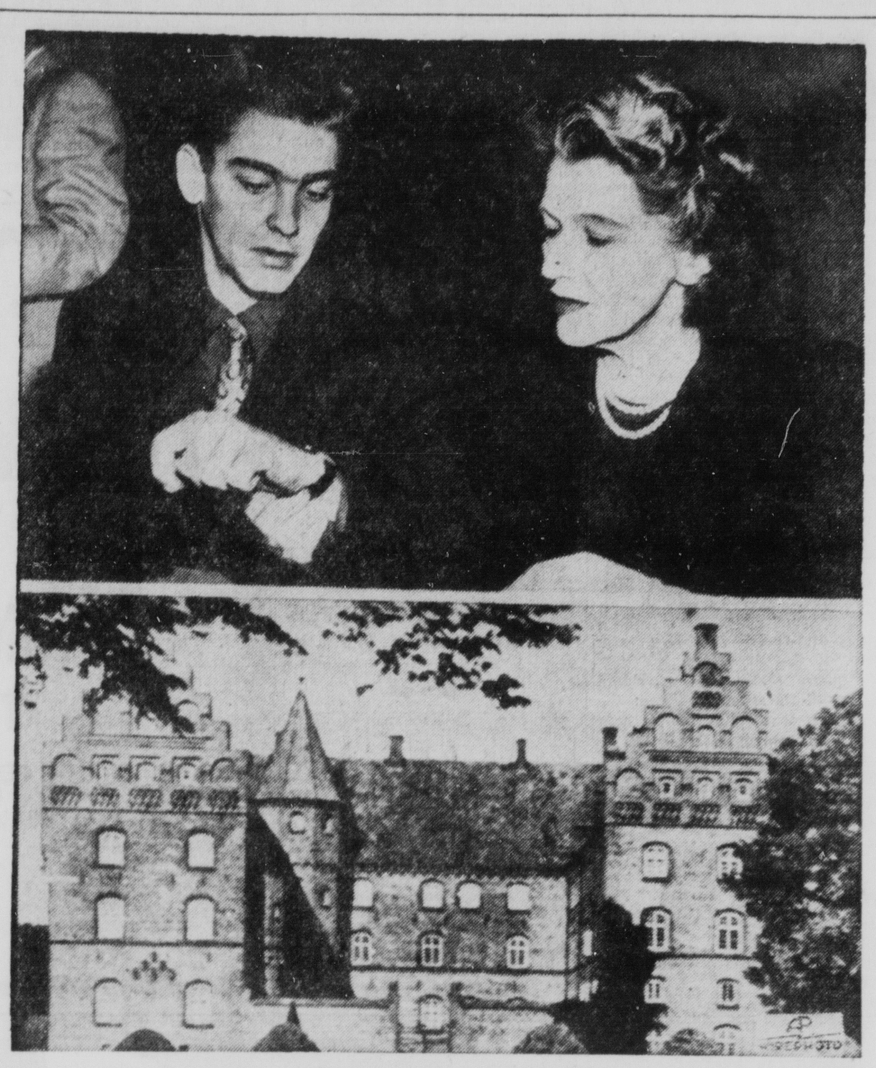

She did tell her fellow workers, however, that while she was with Panek he asked her if she would marry him and she told him, "No."

Associated said they understood Panek previously had proposed marriage to Miss Johnson.

She had resigned from the newspaper, effective Dec. 18, and had planned to return to the Chicago home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson. She had explained that her parents were ill.

Miss Johnson said that Panek did not threaten her at any time while she was in the car with him, and when he let her out of the car he handed her the .22 caliber rifle which he had carried into the newspaper office.

"Here, you take the gun," she quoted Panek as saying. "I didn't want to hurt you or anybody else with it."

CIO Sets Sights On More Wages In Coming Year

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8 (AP)—CIO leaders said today an improving economic outlook for 1955 has raised their sights toward bigger wage and other gains, even if strikes are needed to win them.

A "confidential" report circulated among leaders at the CIO convention takes a generally more optimistic view of conditions next year than the CIO previously had recognized.

It estimates that 1955 will be a better year than 1954, but not so good as 1953. It anticipates an increase of 1½ to 2½ per cent in total production of goods and services, although saying this will not be enough to insure full employment. In fact, it says the 1955 jobless average may be higher than in 1954.

The somewhat rosier view of the future was believed to be the basis for a number of convention speeches outlining bargaining campaigns and threatening strikes in the auto, electrical manufacturing and other industries.

Delegates are being urged to prepare strike funds and generally get ready to "hit the bricks" in any 1955 bargaining stalemates.

CIO President Walter Reuther told the convention the 1½ million member auto Workers Union which he also heads will win a guaranteed annual wage arrangement next year. He said the union is raising a 25 million dollar strike fund to back its demands.

The convention unanimously approved a set of standards designed to safeguard CIO union welfare funds from graft and maladministration. The action stems from recent disclosures that some union officials and insurance men have obtained heavy payments from such funds.

Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late president, received a standing ovation after a speech calling for a return to the principles of the Democratic New Deal and "Fair Deal."

Shah And Wife Enter Hospital For Checkups

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Shah of Iran and his Queen Soraya were admitted to New York Hospital today for checkups. There was no indication what, if anything, was wrong.

A hospital spokesman said the length of the royal couple's stay would depend on the outcome of medical examinations.

The 34 - year - old monarch is scheduled to visit President Eisenhower in Washington Monday.

When he flew into New York last Monday the Shah said he had come "for an informal visit and medical checkup, and possibly to undergo some medical treatment." Late today it was disclosed the Queen also had been admitted to the hospital as a patient.

Court's Racial Ban Attacked

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, WVa., Dec. 8 (AP) — A national conference of state legal officers opened today with a blast from Georgia's attorney general at the Supreme Court's ban on race segregation in public schools.

Atty.-Gen. Eugene Cook, who also heads the National Assn. of Attorneys General, described the high court decision as "judicial usurpation of legislative power and abridgement of state sovereignty in utter disregard of precedent and stable constitutional government."

Cook didn't read aloud, however, a portion of his prepared address in which he declared "the fires of racial tension" have been rekindled by the decision and called on Congress to curb the Supreme Court's powers.

He and others at the conference showed a disposition, however, to gloss over the segregation issue at the beginning, at least, of the three-day meeting. But there are other opportunities for it to arise. One will come Friday when the conference gets around to passing resolutions. Atty.-Gen. Harold R. Fatzer of Kansas has been appointed chairman of the resolutions committee.

A committee of the association called today for cautious consideration of the 50 million dollar highway program proposed by President Eisenhower.

Britain Gets Aid

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Britain received $3,597,500,000 in aid from the United States in the six years from 1948 to last June 30, says a report on Anglo-American cooperation. Aid totaling about 106 million dollars had been allotted but not yet received on June 30, the report said.

Russia Has 360 Factories For Making Planes

LONDON (AP)—Dec. 8 (AP) — An authoritative aircraft survey published today said the Russians have thrown 360 factories into a vast plane production race with the West.

In reticent terms the latest edition of Jane's All the World's Aircraft revealed this program is designed to give the Soviet air force planes to match the performance of the latest models of the United States and Britain. Factories are scattered over wide areas.

The program lays stress on long-range heavy bombers—never a particularly strong point in Soviet aviation—and the building up of modern fighter screens in the satellite states.

Jane's gives sketchy and skimpy details of a new Soviet heavy bomber of the swept-wing, four-jet type.

Planes of the type pictured usually are considered capable of carrying nuclear weapons on intercontinental missions.

One of these bombers roared over Moscow last May Day, sweeping from horizon to horizon in 30 seconds. Accounts then explained it evidently was "capable of packing any weapon yet produced."

Jane's identified this type as a TsAGI 428. Possibly "only one prototype existed" at the time of its Moscow appearance, the publication said. There was no hint of how many the Russians now have.

Jane's said the American Air Force now is undergoing a modernization program "which it is estimated will be 100 per cent complete by 1957."

By that time the U.S. Air Force will have a strength of 40,000 aircraft, "half of which will be jet powered."

"Modernization of the U.S. naval air arm will also be nearly complete by 1957 when it will have a supersonic fighter force and a high subsonic attack force operating from carriers equipped with the British - conceived angled deck, steam catapult and mirror landing device."

Hand Picked Reds Don't Get Elected

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 8 (AP)—Poland's Communist government admitted today its hand-picked candidates in 11 districts failed to win Sunday's local council elections.

The official Polish news agency reported from Warsaw that fewer than the necessary half of the eligible voters balloted in five districts, while the official candidates in six other districts did not get the required number of votes. The number of candidates not elected and the total number of districts were not disclosed.

Lodge Pleads For Release Of U. S. POWs

UN Assembly Votes To Place Airmen's Case On Its Agenda

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. tonight appealed urgently to the U.N. Assembly to throw its moral force behind a demand for the release of 11 American airmen jailed as spies in Red China.

He also called upon the Communists to send home hundreds of other U.N. personnel not yet repatriated. He said the list totalled 2,840 names.

Override Objections

The chief American delegate pleaded to a tense Assembly immediately after the delegates overrode Soviet bloc objections and voted 48-5 to put the case of the airmen on its agenda. The Assembly also voted 44-8 for an immediate debate, by-passing the usual committee action.

Strongly supported by British Minister of State Anthony Nutting and Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson, Lodge called for prompt passage of a resolution by the 16 Korean War Allies. This would ask the secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold, to use "continuing and unremitting efforts" to obtain the release of the captured airmen and report back by Dec. 31.

The debate on putting the complaint on the Assembly's agenda was long and acrimonious. Lodge opened it with an assault on Communist procedural obstacles to an immediate debate. He said the Communist objections that the men actually were spies and that the U.N. had no right to intervene were "nothing but a quibble and a hollow quibble at that."

Exhaust Every Avenue

Lodge said the United States and its Korean Allies had exhausted every other avenue for the release of the 11 airmen and all other unreported personnel and said that case "belongs here."

"This was the only place we could bring it," he said.

He said the imprisonment of the 11 airmen and the detention of hundreds of other captured war prisoners was a "glaring violation" of the Korean armistice.

Jacob A. Malik, acting chief delegate, repeatedly said the Americans were on an espionage mission and that the U.N. had no right to intervene to set aside their sentences, which were announced by Peiping radio on Thanksgiving day.

Nutting, in a speech that drew a burst of applause from almost every one in the Assembly except the Communist delegate, said the U.N. was asked to believe these men were spies despite that they were packed in a single airplane and dressed in the uniform of their country.

Mayor Is Guilty Of Conspiracy

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—Mayor Thomas W. Flatley, 67, a kingpin in the Erie County Democratic party, pleaded guilty today to charges of conspiracy and violating his oath of office. The charges stemmed from a gambling raid.

Flatley entered his surprise plea while the court was considering a motion by the mayor's counsel to postpone his trial. He was one of more than 40 persons arrested by state police Oct. 16.

Dist. Atty. Damian McLaughlin, a Republican, said the raid broke up a 20-million-dollar a year gambling syndicate in the county.

McLaughlin said the mayor accepted money from gamblers and in return kept police from interferring with their operations.

By pleading guilty to charges of violating his oath of office, Flatley automatically forfeited his $7,500 a-year municipal position. He was serving his first four-year term. Before being elected in 1952, Flatley had served 16 years as an Erie County commissioner.

He faces a maximun sentence of three years and a $2,000 fine.

Charges of conspiracy and bribery were dropped against Henry Soscia after he pleaded guilty to a gambling charge. He was scheduled to go on trial with Flatley.

Judge Elmer Evans said he will sentence the mayor and Soscia Jan. 6.

ACTRESS DIES — Gladys George, 50, veteran stage and screen actress died in a hospital in Hollywood yesterday under mysterious circumstances. Police are investigating. (See story below)

Joseph Keenan, Prosecutor At War Trials, Dies

ASHEBORO, N.C., Dec. 8 (AP)—Joseph B. Keenan, 66, chief prosecutor in the Japanese war crimes trials in Tokyo, died of a heart attack in a hospital here today.

The Washington lawyer, famed also as a gangbuster, suffered an attack last Saturday while visiting friends at nearby Greensboro. He was brought here Sunday after suffering a second attack. The fatal attack came early today.

Keenan began his gangbusting career in Ohio after the Gov. James M. Cox appointed him to assist the Ohio attorney general in an investigation of crime conditions in Cleveland.

Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings called him to Washington as a special assistant to help put down the wave of kidnapings and other crime that swept the nation in the early 30s.

Within four months after he arrived he had convicted George R. "Machine Gun" Kelly and other gangsters of the kidnaping of a wealthy oil man, Charles Urschel.

Cummings promoted Keenan to head the Justice Department's Criminal Division. He wrote the Lindbergh Kidnaping Law and played a major role in getting 10 crime laws through Congress, extending the federal war on gangsters, racketeers and kidnapers.

President Truman appointed Keenan in 1945 to prosecute the Japanese war crime cases. He charged 28 Japanese officials with plotting aggression from 1928 onward. The trial brought death sentences for former Premier Tojo and six others.

Kennan was born at Pawtucket, R.I. He served with the cavalry on the Mexican border and in World War I in France.

He is survived by his widow, Charlotte; two sons, William Q. of Boston and John D. of New York and a daughter, Betty Jean, who lives at the Keenan home in Chevy Chase, Md.

Alert Dog Catchers Capture Bank Robbers

MONROE, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP)—A couple of alert dog catchers, with a two-way radio in their truck, captured two ex-convict gunmen today less than 20 minutes after the pair staged a $3,000 bank holdup.

The dog catchers, Eugene Glavin and John McKeever, set up a roadblock when they heard of the robbery at the Newport State Bank in nearby Newport, a Southeastern Michigan community.

Refuses Reply To Senator's Heated Attack

Says People Seeking Government Run By Progressive Group

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — President Eisenhower shunned a personal word battle with Republican Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin today while declaring the American people want a government run by "progressive moderates."

"And that is exactly what I am working for" the President added.

Eisenhower, with his temper apparently well contained, told his news conference crisply that he would not reply to McCarthy's attack on him yesterday. The senator had accused him of displaying a "shrinking show of weakness" toward communism.

Takes Positive Stand

The President said he stands for positive things and does not indulge in personal vituperation or quarrels of any kind. He did not mention McCarthy's name once during the conference.

When a reporter spoke of the possibility of the "extreme right wing" of the Republican party following McCarthy into a new party in 1956, Eisenhower said if people want to split off because of secondary or lesser considerations that will have to be their business.

"From the beginning I have tried to stand for something that is positive and progressive," the President declared.

"I believe that the federal government has a continuous, definite obligation to study the needs of 163 million people, our standing abroad, our security from attack, and the arrangement of the connections between government and our economy, our industries and our individuals.

"Now that is the kind of program that I stand for," Eisenhower continued, "and if there are enough people waiting to go along with it, then we have no fear.

"If people want to split off because of some other secondary or lesser consideration, that will have to be their business.

Want Progressives

"But I do know that so far as I can determine, the great mass of the people of the United States want what I would call a group of progressive moderates handling their business.

"And that is exactly what I am working for."

The White House authorized direct quotation of these comments.

There was nothing in Eisenhower's demeanor today to indicate he was deeply angered by McCarthy's charge that he congratulated senators who hinder "exposure of communism" while urging patience toward Chinese Reds who are "torturing and brain-washing American uniformed men."

Eisenhower smiled frequently and joined heartily in a round of laughter after a reporter, remarking that McCarthy had said he was sorry he had asked the people to vote for Eisenhower in '52, asked whether the President exchanged the sentiment.

The President said obviously the reporter didn't expect an answer.

Pilot Uses Plane To Woo His Girl

BOYNE CITY, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP)—A romantic aviator circled Boyne City for 15 minutes today in an apparent proposal to the girl of his choice by means of a huge banner streaming behind his craft. The sign read:

Civil aeronautics officials identified the pilot as Carl Demler, 40, of Deer Lake, a professional crop duster.

Mystery Surrounds Death Of Actress Gladys George, 50

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8 (AP)—Veteran stage and movie actress Gladys George died in a hospital today under circumstances the police described as mysterious. She was 50.

She was sent to the hospital on the advice of her physician, Dr. Russell Jones, but died a few hours after being admitted. Her landlady, Mrs. Emma Colfax, had found her in her apartment. Police said she was unconscious when she was found.

Miss George, whose real name was Gladys Clare, was born in Patton, Me., and made her stage debut when 3 in a touring stock show with her parents.

She was acclaimed one of the best performers of 1936 by the Motion Picture Academy for her role in "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie." Among her best known roles were in "The Way of All Flesh," "Marie Antoinette," "A Child Is Born," "Madam X," "Best Years of Our Lives," and "Lullaby of Broadway."

One of her last stage appearances in Hollywood was in "Rain," in which she played the role of Sadie Thompson.

Miss George married four times. Her last husband was a Los Angeles bellboy, Kenneth C. Bradley. They were married in 1946 and divorced four years later. Her other husbands were actor Arthur Erway, Edward Fowler, paper manufacturer, and Leonard Penn.

A neighbor of Miss George said she had become a recluse in recent years and seldom ventured out except to walk her dog.

The 34 - year - old monarch is scheduled to visit President Eisenhower in Washington Monday.

When he flew into New York last Monday the Shah said he had come "for an informal visit and medical checkup, and possibly to undergo some medical treatment." Late today it was disclosed the Queen also had been admitted to the hospital as a patient.

Court's Racial Ban Attacked

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, WVa., Dec. 8 (AP) — A national conference of state legal officers opened today with a blast from Georgia's attorney general at the Supreme Court's ban on race segregation in public schools.

Atty.-Gen. Eugene Cook, who also heads the National Assn. of Attorneys General, described the high court decision as "judicial usurpation of legislative power and abridgement of state sovereignty in utter disregard of precedent and stable constitutional government."

Cook didn't read aloud, however, a portion of his prepared address in which he declared "the fires of racial tension" have been rekindled by the decision and called on Congress to curb the Supreme Court's powers.

He and others at the conference showed a disposition, however, to gloss over the segregation issue at the beginning, at least, of the three-day meeting. But there are other opportunities for it to arise. One will come Friday when the conference gets around to passing resolutions. Atty.-Gen. Harold R. Fatzer of Kansas has been appointed chairman of the resolutions committee.

A committee of the association called today for cautious consideration of the 50 million dollar highway program proposed by President Eisenhower.

Britain Gets Aid

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Britain received $3,597,500,000 in aid from the United States in the six years from 1948 to last June 30, says a report on Anglo-American cooperation. Aid totaling about 106 million dollars had been allotted but not yet received on June 30, the report said.

Russia Has 360 Factories For Making Planes

LONDON (AP)—Dec. 8 (AP) — An authoritative aircraft survey published today said the Russians have thrown 360 factories into a vast plane production race with the West.

In reticent terms the latest edition of Jane's All the World's Aircraft revealed this program is designed to give the Soviet air force planes to match the performance of the latest models of the United States and Britain. Factories are scattered over wide areas.

The program lays stress on long-range heavy bombers—never a particularly strong point in Soviet aviation—and the building up of modern fighter screens in the satellite states.

Jane's gives sketchy and skimpy details of a new Soviet heavy bomber of the swept-wing, four-jet type.

Planes of the type pictured usually are considered capable of carrying nuclear weapons on intercontinental missions.

One of these bombers roared over Moscow last May Day, sweeping from horizon to horizon in 30 seconds. Accounts then explained it evidently was "capable of packing any weapon yet produced."

Jane's identified this type as a TsAGI 428. Possibly "only one prototype existed" at the time of its Moscow appearance, the publication said. There was no hint of how many the Russians now have.

Jane's said the American Air Force now is undergoing a modernization program "which it is estimated will be 100 per cent complete by 1957."

By that time the U.S. Air Force will have a strength of 40,000 aircraft, "half of which will be jet powered."

"Modernization of the U.S. naval air arm will also be nearly complete by 1957 when it will have a supersonic fighter force and a high subsonic attack force operating from carriers equipped with the British - conceived angled deck, steam catapult and mirror landing device."

Hand Picked Reds Don't Get Elected

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 8 (AP)—Poland's Communist government admitted today its hand-picked candidates in 11 districts failed to win Sunday's local council elections.

The official Polish news agency reported from Warsaw that fewer than the necessary half of the eligible voters balloted in five districts, while the official candidates in six other districts did not get the required number of votes. The number of candidates not elected and the total number of districts were not disclosed.

Lodge Pleads For Release Of U. S. POWs

UN Assembly Votes To Place Airmen's Case On Its Agenda

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. tonight appealed urgently to the U.N. Assembly to throw its moral force behind a demand for the release of 11 American airmen jailed as spies in Red China.

He also called upon the Communists to send home hundreds of other U.N. personnel not yet repatriated. He said the list totalled 2,840 names.

Override Objections

The chief American delegate pleaded to a tense Assembly immediately after the delegates overrode Soviet bloc objections and voted 48-5 to put the case of the airmen on its agenda. The Assembly also voted 44-8 for an immediate debate, by-passing the usual committee action.

Strongly supported by British Minister of State Anthony Nutting and Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson, Lodge called for prompt passage of a resolution by the 16 Korean War Allies. This would ask the secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold, to use "continuing and unremitting efforts" to obtain the release of the captured airmen and report back by Dec. 31.

The debate on putting the complaint on the Assembly's agenda was long and acrimonious. Lodge opened it with an assault on Communist procedural obstacles to an immediate debate. He said the Communist objections that the men actually were spies and that the U.N. had no right to intervene were "nothing but a quibble and a hollow quibble at that."

Exhaust Every Avenue

Lodge said the United States and its Korean Allies had exhausted every other avenue for the release of the 11 airmen and all other unreported personnel and said that case "belongs here."

"This was the only place we could bring it," he said.

He said the imprisonment of the 11 airmen and the detention of hundreds of other captured war prisoners was a "glaring violation" of the Korean armistice.

Jacob A. Malik, acting chief delegate, repeatedly said the Americans were on an espionage mission and that the U.N. had no right to intervene to set aside their sentences, which were announced by Peiping radio on Thanksgiving day.

Nutting, in a speech that drew a burst of applause from almost every one in the Assembly except the Communist delegate, said the U.N. was asked to believe these men were spies despite that they were packed in a single airplane and dressed in the uniform of their country.

Mayor Is Guilty Of Conspiracy

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—Mayor Thomas W. Flatley, 67, a kingpin in the Erie County Democratic party, pleaded guilty today to charges of conspiracy and violating his oath of office. The charges stemmed from a gambling raid.

Flatley entered his surprise plea while the court was considering a motion by the mayor's counsel to postpone his trial. He was one of more than 40 persons arrested by state police Oct. 16.

Dist. Atty. Damian McLaughlin, a Republican, said the raid broke up a 20-million-dollar a year gambling syndicate in the county.

McLaughlin said the mayor accepted money from gamblers and in return kept police from interferring with their operations.

By pleading guilty to charges of violating his oath of office, Flatley automatically forfeited his $7,500 a-year municipal position. He was serving his first four-year term. Before being elected in 1952, Flatley had served 16 years as an Erie County commissioner.

He faces a maximun sentence of three years and a $2,000 fine.

Charges of conspiracy and bribery were dropped against Henry Soscia after he pleaded guilty to a gambling charge. He was scheduled to go on trial with Flatley.

Judge Elmer Evans said he will sentence the mayor and Soscia Jan. 6.

Lists Defense Costs

BONN, Germany, Dec. 8 (AP)—The West German government has earmarked $2,142,000,000 for defense costs in the next fiscal year's budget, presented to Parliament today. That's about a third of the proposed total expenditures.

ACTRESS DIES — Gladys George, 50, veteran stage and screen actress died in a hospital in Hollywood yesterday under mysterious circumstances. Police are investigating. (See story below)

Joseph Keenan, Prosecutor At War Trials, Dies

ASHEBORO, N.C., Dec. 8 (AP)—Joseph B. Keenan, 66, chief prosecutor in the Japanese war crimes trials in Tokyo, died of a heart attack in a hospital here today.

The Washington lawyer, famed also as a gangbuster, suffered an attack last Saturday while visiting friends at nearby Greensboro. He was brought here Sunday after suffering a second attack. The fatal attack came early today.

Keenan began his gangbusting career in Ohio after the Gov. James M. Cox appointed him to assist the Ohio attorney general in an investigation of crime conditions in Cleveland.

Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings called him to Washington as a special assistant to help put down the wave of kidnapings and other crime that swept the nation in the early 30s.

Within four months after he arrived he had convicted George R. "Machine Gun" Kelly and other gangsters of the kidnaping of a wealthy oil man, Charles Urschel.

Cummings promoted Keenan to head the Justice Department's Criminal Division. He wrote the Lindbergh Kidnaping Law and played a major role in getting 10 crime laws through Congress, extending the federal war on gangsters, racketeers and kidnapers.

President Truman appointed Keenan in 1945 to prosecute the Japanese war crime cases. He charged 28 Japanese officials with plotting aggression from 1928 onward. The trial brought death sentences for former Premier Tojo and six others.

Kennan was born at Pawtucket, R.I. He served with the cavalry on the Mexican border and in World War I in France.

He is survived by his widow, Charlotte; two sons, William Q. of Boston and John D. of New York and a daughter, Betty Jean, who lives at the Keenan home in Chevy Chase, Md.

Alert Dog Catchers Capture Bank Robbers

MONROE, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP)—A couple of alert dog catchers, with a two-way radio in their truck, captured two ex-convict gunmen today less than 20 minutes after the pair staged a $3,000 bank holdup.

The dog catchers, Eugene Glavin and John McKeever, set up a roadblock when they heard of the robbery at the Newport State Bank in nearby Newport, a Southeastern Michigan community.

Refuses Reply To Senator's Heated Attack

Says People Seeking Government Run By Progressive Group

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — President Eisenhower shunned a personal word battle with Republican Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin today while declaring the American people want a government run by "progressive moderates."

"And that is exactly what I am working for" the President added.

Eisenhower, with his temper apparently well contained, told his news conference crisply that he would not reply to McCarthy's attack on him yesterday. The senator had accused him of displaying a "shrinking show of weakness" toward communism.

Takes Positive Stand

The President said he stands for positive things and does not indulge in personal vituperation or quarrels of any kind. He did not mention McCarthy's name once during the conference.

When a reporter spoke of the possibility of the "extreme right wing" of the Republican party following McCarthy into a new party in 1956, Eisenhower said if people want to split off because of secondary or lesser considerations that will have to be their business.

"From the beginning I have tried to stand for something that is positive and progressive," the President declared.

"I believe that the federal government has a continuous, definite obligation to study the needs of 163 million people, our standing abroad, our security from attack, and the arrangement of the connections between government and our economy, our industries and our individuals.

"Now that is the kind of program that I stand for," Eisenhower continued, "and if there are enough people waiting to go along with it, then we have no fear.

"If people want to split off because of some other secondary or lesser consideration, that will have to be their business.

Want Progressives

"But I do know that so far as I can determine, the great mass of the people of the United States want what I would call a group of progressive moderates handling their business.

"And that is exactly what I am working for."

The White House authorized direct quotation of these comments.

There was nothing in Eisenhower's demeanor today to indicate he was deeply angered by McCarthy's charge that he congratulated senators who hinder "exposure of communism" while urging patience toward Chinese Reds who are "torturing and brain-washing American uniformed men."

Eisenhower smiled frequently and joined heartily in a round of laughter after a reporter, remarking that McCarthy had said he was sorry he had asked the people to vote for Eisenhower in '52, asked whether the President exchanged the sentiment.

The President said obviously the reporter didn't expect an answer.

Pilot Uses Plane To Woo His Girl

BOYNE CITY, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP)—A romantic aviator circled Boyne City for 15 minutes today in an apparent proposal to the girl of his choice by means of a huge banner streaming behind his craft. The sign read:

"Evelyn, I love you. Marry me. Carl."

Mystery Surrounds Death Of Actress Gladys George, 50

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8 (AP)—Veteran stage and movie actress Gladys George died in a hospital today under circumstances the police described as mysterious. She was 50.

She was sent to the hospital on the advice of her physician, Dr. Russell Jones, but died a few hours after being admitted. Her landlady, Mrs. Emma Colfax, had found her in her apartment. Police said she was unconscious when she was found.

Miss George, whose real name was Gladys Clare, was born in Patton, Me., and made her stage debut when 3 in a touring stock show with her parents.

She was acclaimed one of the best performers of 1936 by the Motion Picture Academy for her role in "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie." Among her best known roles were in "The Way of All Flesh," "Marie Antoinette," "A Child Is Born," "Madam X," "Best Years of Our Lives," and "Lullaby of Broadway."

One of her last stage appearances in Hollywood was in "Rain," in which she played the role of Sadie Thompson.

Miss George married four times. Her last husband was a Los Angeles bellboy, Kenneth C. Bradley. They were married in 1946 and divorced four years later. Her other husbands were actor Arthur Erway, Edward Fowler, paper manufacturer, and Leonard Penn.

A neighbor of Miss George said she had become a recluse in recent years and seldom ventured out except to walk her dog.

Dr. Sam's Broken Neck Said Only "Little Thing" By The Doctor Who Took The X-Rays

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's widely heralded broken neck was described today by a friendly witness as a possible chip fracture—"a little thing. It never could be pinned down after the first X-ray."

The testimony came from Dr. Gervaise Flick, a tall, gray X-ray analyst at Sheppard's osteopathic hospital. He was a defense witness at Sheppard's trial for the July 4 murder of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

For six to eight weeks after the slaying, the 30-year-old osteopath wore a neck brace and his brother said the neck was broken by an unknown stranger who killed Marilyn. The state has been trying to prove the injury trivial, the brace unnecessary.

Dr. Flick testified he was called in to examine the first X-ray prints the morning of July 4.

"I saw a shadow that is consistent with separation of the lower back tip (of the second vertebrae of the neck) which would be a chip," Dr. Flick recalled. "It's a little thing which we characterize as a chip fracture."

The analyst conceded it was so vague that it took him 48 hours to assure himself it wasn't just a flaw on the X-ray print.

Dr. Flick testified that two other sets of X-rays were made without again detecting the chip fracture.

Dr. Flick contradicted the testimony of a previous defense medical witness, Dr. Clifford C. Foster, a 47-year-old short, bachelor osteopath at Sheppard's Bay View Hospital.

Dr. Foster said Dr. Sheppard's X-ray prints still were wet when he examined them about 3 p.m. July 4. There has been testimony that wet films are less reliable than dry ones.

However, Dr. Flick said the films were dry when he examined them around noon—some three hours before Dr. Foster.

Dr. Foster testified he noticed a faded black and blue mark on the skin of Dr. Sheppard's neck about the size of a thumbmark. Parrino tried to show Dr. Sheppard could have bruised his own neck by clasping his hands to it while complaining of pain.

Pontiff Closes Marian Year

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 8 (AP)—United by radio to Roman Catholics everywhere, Pope Pius XII today closed the Marian year with a blessing to the world from his sickroom.

His message was spoken with deep emotion, as if reflecting his suffering:

"As we behold the entire Catholic world, kneeling today like one family at the feet of the Immaculate Virgin, we are grateful to the Lord who, as a seal on such a multitude of prayers and good work offered up to Him during this year of grace, has asked of us suffering and sacrifice as an act of love."

It was with "suffering in our members and sacrifice in our heart" that he closed the Marian year by saying the Ave Maria, the Pope added.

Recorded at his bedside and broadcast over the Vatican radio, the words were heard in hushed silence in Rome's majestic basilica of St. Mary Major. There, two miles from the Vatican, prayerful Romans had gathered to observe the closing Te Deum for the year in Mary's honor.

The Pope gave his brief message in Italian. In Latin he then recited the Ave Maria and gave his blessing to the city of Rome and the world.

A few hours before the ceremony, the ailing pontiff took a first few halting steps, supported by the arm of his private physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi. This, an authoritative source explained, was at once a measure of the Pope's slow recovery and a medical precaution, taken lest he suffer disability by prolonged immobility. His doctor plans to repeat this procedure daily.

Remington Wrote Of Open Warfare By Prison Felons

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP) — The New York Post said today that slain William Remington's letters from the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary revealed open warfare among inmate gangs — but that authorities did nothing about it.

The newspaper published excerpts of letters from the former government economist, imprisoned as a perjurer, to his wife, Jane, who lives in Levittown, N. Y.

One letter said in part:

"The shocking thing is that the administration has either so little knowledge or such inadequate means of control that such 'bad' cliques take over effective sway even in 'honor' quarters.

"Ordinarily any man detests the idea of being under surveillance. Here, in many quarters, the relatively decent element often wishes to goodness there were more."

The Post held that prison authorities must have known what was going on because prisoners' mail is censored.

Prison officials have scouted theories that Remington was fatally beaten with sock-encased brick last Nov. 22 because of anti-Communist feeling among inmates. Remington was convicted of lying when he denied he passed government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

But neither have the officials said why he was beaten, although three inmates have been indicted on a general murder charge.

James V. Bennett, federal prison director, said on Nov. 27 that all facts would be brought out at the trial and he expressed confidence in the Lewisburg prison staff.

The Post today quoted one letter in which Remington told of his offering to act as a bodygard for a threatened roommate.

"A curious role for me in here with these anti-intellectual tough guys," he wrote his wife.

Negro Woman Has 9th Child In Four Years

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Gussie Cleveland, 24-year-old Negro, has had nine children in four years, including two sets of triplets and one of twins.

The latest triplets, all boys, arrived Saturday and were reported doing fine today at Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Mrs. Cleveland was calm but admitted she was concerned over the fact that her laborer husband was without work.

Mrs. Cleveland had twins in 1950, triplets in 1951, and a single child in 1952. Of these, three are living.

Probers Quiz Insurance Man

WIESBADEN, Germany, Dec. 8 (AP)—A former life insurance salesman told a U.S. congressional subcommittee today that he quit selling to American soldiers "because I wanted to keep a clear conscience." His former employer testified the salesman was fired for being "irresponsible."

William Albach, 38, a German-born American citizen, was summoned as a witness before the House Armed Services subcommittee for Defense Activities which is investigating the sale of life insurance to U.S. troops in Europe.

"After I found out what kind of policies I was selling I quit because I wanted to keep a clear conscience," Albach testified.

His former employer, George Ashley of Freehold, N. J., general agent of the American Standard Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth, Tex., told the subcommittee:

"Albach was found to be completely irresponsible. He tried, for one thing, to set up a dancing school for GIs and sell them insurance. He did other things. We did not want that kind of a man. We let him go."

Job Situations Said Better Despite More Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Rehiring in the nation's mills and factories brought "further improvement in the job situation" in November despite some increase in total unemployment, the Commerce and Labor Departments reported today.

Unemployment went to 2,893,000, a rise of 152,000 from October. But the climb was only about half as great as is normal in the season of dwindling activity in farming, building, and food packing.

Employment declined 410,000 because more than one million farm workers dropped out, but factory jobs reached the highest total since March and over-all nonfarm employment hit a 1954 high.

Back-to-work calls in the auto, steel, and other industries helped to hold total employment at 61,731,000. This was nearly half a million below the November, 1953, total.

The job report, compiled by the Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, contained these further evidences of moderate business recovery:

1. The factory work week lengthened from 39.9 hours to 40.1, reaching the 1953 level for the first time this year.

2. Factory pay rose to an average of $72.98 a week for production workers, a new all-time record. It was 76 cents above October.

3. While rehiring in the auto plants was the biggest factor in a 25,000 rise of manufacturing employment—instead of the usual November drop—expansion was shown also in electrical machinery and in metals; in textiles, the drop was less than seasonal.

Despite the generally favorable trend, factory employment in November, at 16,100,000, was 900,000 or 5.3 per cent below the 1953 level and 6 per cent below the 1952 peak for the month.

Every manufacturing industry except lumber, printing, and tobacco showed some loss over the year.

Britain Protests Hostile Broadcasts

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Britain has protested to Greece against what she called "hostile propaganda" broadcasts by the Athens radio to Britain's island colony of Cyprus in the Mediterranean, Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden said today.

The British ambassador to Athens "has received an assurance that offensive matter will not in the future be included in the broadcasts," Eden told the House of Commons.

Greece is disputing Britain's right to Cyprus, which the British are developing as their main Middle East military headquarters. Greece has put her case before the United Nations.

"Ordinarily any man detests the idea of being under surveillance. Here, in many quarters, the relatively decent element often wishes to goodness there were more."

The Post held that prison authorities must have known what was going on because prisoners' mail is censored.

Prison officials have scouted theories that Remington was fatally beaten with sock-encased brick last Nov. 22 because of anti-Communist feeling among inmates. Remington was convicted of lying when he denied he passed government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

But neither have the officials said why he was beaten, although three inmates have been indicted on a general murder charge.

James V. Bennett, federal prison director, said on Nov. 27 that all facts would be brought out at the trial and he expressed confidence in the Lewisburg prison staff.

The Post today quoted one letter in which Remington told of his offering to act as a bodygard for a threatened roommate.

"A curious role for me in here with these anti-intellectual tough guys," he wrote his wife.

Negro Woman Has 9th Child In Four Years

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Gussie Cleveland, 24-year-old Negro, has had nine children in four years, including two sets of triplets and one of twins.

The latest triplets, all boys, arrived Saturday and were reported doing fine today at Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Mrs. Cleveland was calm but admitted she was concerned over the fact that her laborer husband was without work.

Mrs. Cleveland had twins in 1950, triplets in 1951, and a single child in 1952. Of these, three are living.

Probers Quiz Insurance Man

WIESBADEN, Germany, Dec. 8 (AP)—A former life insurance salesman told a U.S. congressional subcommittee today that he quit selling to American soldiers "because I wanted to keep a clear conscience." His former employer testified the salesman was fired for being "irresponsible."

William Albach, 38, a German-born American citizen, was summoned as a witness before the House Armed Services subcommittee for Defense Activities which is investigating the sale of life insurance to U.S. troops in Europe.

"After I found out what kind of policies I was selling I quit because I wanted to keep a clear conscience," Albach testified.

His former employer, George Ashley of Freehold, N. J., general agent of the American Standard Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth, Tex., told the subcommittee:

"Albach was found to be completely irresponsible. He tried, for one thing, to set up a dancing school for GIs and sell them insurance. He did other things. We did not want that kind of a man. We let him go."

Job Situations Said Better Despite More Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Rehiring in the nation's mills and factories brought "further improvement in the job situation" in November despite some increase in total unemployment, the Commerce and Labor Departments reported today.

Unemployment went to 2,893,000, a rise of 152,000 from October. But the climb was only about half as great as is normal in the season of dwindling activity in farming, building, and food packing.

Employment declined 410,000 because more than one million farm workers dropped out, but factory jobs reached the highest total since March and over-all nonfarm employment hit a 1954 high.

Back-to-work calls in the auto, steel, and other industries helped to hold total employment at 61,731,000. This was nearly half a million below the November, 1953, total.

The job report, compiled by the Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, contained these further evidences of moderate business recovery:

1. The factory work week lengthened from 39.9 hours to 40.1, reaching the 1953 level for the first time this year.

2. Factory pay rose to an average of $72.98 a week for production workers, a new all-time record. It was 76 cents above October.

3. While rehiring in the auto plants was the biggest factor in a 25,000 rise of manufacturing employment—instead of the usual November drop—expansion was shown also in electrical machinery and in metals; in textiles, the drop was less than seasonal.

Despite the generally favorable trend, factory employment in November, at 16,100,000, was 900,000 or 5.3 per cent below the 1953 level and 6 per cent below the 1952 peak for the month.

Every manufacturing industry except lumber, printing, and tobacco showed some loss over the year.

Britain Protests Hostile Broadcasts

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Britain has protested to Greece against what she called "hostile propaganda" broadcasts by the Athens radio to Britain's island colony of Cyprus in the Mediterranean, Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden said today.

The British ambassador to Athens "has received an assurance that offensive matter will not in the future be included in the broadcasts," Eden told the House of Commons.

Greece is disputing Britain's right to Cyprus, which the British are developing as their main Middle East military headquarters. Greece has put her case before the United Nations.

Former Soviet Intelligence Officer Says Korean War Was Serious Mistake By Stalin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—A former Soviet intelligence officer who defected to the United States describes the Korean War as a Stalin blunder that badly strained Soviet relations with Red China.

Yuri A. Rastvorov, a former lieutenant colonel in the Soviet intelligence network in Japan, says Stalin was informed South Korea "could be had for the taking" in 1950.

Stalin was sold on the idea by Col. Gen. Terenty F. Shtykov, then head of Soviet occupation forces in North Korea, but later banished to a minor job.

(Shtykov was mentioned early this year as first secretary of the Communist party in the city of Novgorod.)

Writing in Life magazine, Rastvorov gives this account of how the Korean War came about:

The invasion was to be entirely a Soviet-North Korean affair, since it was to be an easy job. Moscow had been informed the United States' only troops in the Far East were four poorly equipped understrength divisions in Japan. The Red Chinese were to be kept advised, but originally there was no question of their participation.

United States intervention upset the timetable. As United Nations forces began driving north, Stalin appealed to Mao Tze-tung. Mao insisted the Chinese lacked gasoline, planes, artillery and many other things. After long argument, Stalin promised China all kinds of aid.

"The cozy relationship between Moscow and Peiping became badly strained as Mao watched his crack corps being bled white in Korea. It was then that Stalin decided to start truce discussions through his U.N. envoy, Jacob Malik. However, because he clung to the hope that the Chinese might still achieve a breakthrough, Stalin ordered the negotiations dragged out as long as possible.

"As the truce talks went on, it became apparent that the whole Korean adventure had been one of Stalin's worst blunders. Soviet army leaders realized that China was not prepared for a long war with a major power and could not be so prepared on short notice. Indeed, some of us wondered why the United States did not push the Korean War to a victorious conclusion. Had it done so, I believe Stalin would have relinquished the entire peninsula without further Soviet intervention. His 4,000-mile line of communication to Korea was already overtaxed. His Far East air force was weak and the Soviet Pacific fleet vulnerable. And over all hung the threat of U. S. atomic weapons, for which he had tremendous respect."

Soviet atomic strength at the time was mostly bluff, Rastvorov reports, and this inadequacy decided Soviet propaganda, using the Japanese Communist party for the job, on launching charges of "germ warfare" to convince the world the United States was bent on mass destruction.

Traffic Problem In Rome Was Rough Too!

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—If you think traffic is terrible, and that something should be done about it, it may soothe you to learn that historically you're in good company.

Things were so rough in ancient Rome that the Romans took a surprisingly modern way out. They put in one-way streets.

At one point chariot tieups became such a problem even Julius Caesar realized something had to be done, and he did it. He banned all chariots from the heart of the city.

Henry K. Evans, a traffic expert with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said today that as far as he knows this simple idea for controlling traffic, by abolishing it, has been improved on only once.

A famous architect took the Pittsburgh, Pa., traffic problem, wrestled it, and came up with this solution: abolish Pittsburgh.

Tear it down, he said, and start over again.

As the Christmas rush starts and traffic steadily builds up, here are a few un-Christmasy thoughts to keep in mind while waiting for the car ahead to move a few inches:

That one parcel delivery company in New York figures traffic delays cost it $100,000 a year.

That Providence, R. I., experts put the cost of traffic congestion there at 50 million dollars a year.

Perhaps you've wondered about the mania for one-way streets.

Well, Evans said the Romans had the right idea. A 50-foot downtown street, with parking on both sides, will handle 1,000 vehicles an hour. Make it one-way only, and it will handle 1,150. Keep it two-way, but ban parking, and it steps up to 1,800. Make it one-way, and abolish all parking, and it will handle 2,300 cars an hour.

One-way streets, and that ever present "no parking" sign, irritate the motorist, it's true. But the only alternative in many cases is widening the street, and Evans says the cost of that can be prohibitive.

The traffic engineers' best friend Evans said, is the electronically controlled stop light. Properly used in a complete system, Evans said, cars are counted and lights adjusted automatically to keep time with the flow of traffic.

But this can be a costly friendship. In a setup like this, traffic lights at a single corner can run as high as $40,000.

Russia May Lead U.S. Now In Field Of Travel In Space

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8 (AP) — There is a strong possibility that the Russians are far ahead of the United States in the space travel field, Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, said here.

Dr. Levitt said Russia's preeminence in the field of space travel may be due to the tremendous German rocket potential captured at the end of World War II. He said Russia captured more than 80 per cent of all the German rocket installations.

Speaking to the cadets of the Valley Forge Military Academy, Dr. Levitt said that at least 160 German rocket experts went to work for the Russians after various forms of persuasion.

"The tremendous store of semi-skilled help which assembled the V2 rockets were also available because these Germans lived behind what is now the Iron Curtain. In an effort by the Germans to keep their rocket establishments from being bombed by the Allies their rocket factories and assembly plants were pushed far into the eastern territories taken over by the Russians," Dr. Levitt said.

Dr. Levitt said that George P. Sutton, who he described as one of this country's leading civilian authorities on Russian rocketry, believes the Russians may have more than 1,000 V2s at present while this country has already fired its last one.

The planetarium director told the cadets that the Russians have increased the range of the V2 by modifying it. He said the present range is reputed to be 550 miles and it is also faster than the original. Its thrust has been increased from 28 to 38 tons, he said.

Veterans Get Less Benefits Now Than During Civil War

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary Rehabilitation Conference were told today veterans are getting fewer benefits now — in proportion to the national budget — than the United States provided after the Civil War.

The cost of veterans benefits has dropped to less than one per cent of the federal budget, according to Chester F. Naumowicz of Silver Spring, a member of the Legion's rehabilitation committee.

"In the 1870, five years after the Civil War, veterans made up only 4.5 per cent of the population, yet 9.9 per cent of the total federal budget was for veterans' benefits," said Naumowicz.

He added that two years after World War I had ended, the veteran population was 4.8 per cent and the cost of veterans' benefits was 7.7 per cent of the Federal budget.

Naumowicz said the veteran population percentage in 1953 was 12.6 per cent. He told the conference VA benefits have declined from a peak of 16.5 per cent of the Federal expenditures in 1950 to 5.8 per cent in 1953.

Naumowicz was the first of a score of speakers to address the two-day conference being attended by delegates from eight states.

The conference is an annual event designed for discussions of plans for carrying on the veterans' rehabilitation program maintained by the auxiliary.

Mrs. B. D. Ward, Kingwood, W. Va., chairman of the auxiliary's rehabilitation committee, is presiding at the conference.

O'Conor Blasts Damages Given Ex-UN Employes

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Former U. S. Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor said today the award of $179,000 in damages to eleven discharged employes of the United Nations is "an insult to patriotic citizens of the United States."

The former senator, a Maryland Democrat, headed a committee which two years ago conducted hearings on charges the UN secretariat had been infiltrated by U.S. subversives.

Eleven UN employes were discharged when they invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer questions at the senate committee hearings. An administrative tribunal of the UN subsequently awarded them the $179,000 in damages and back pay.

The protest O'Conor made today was embodied in a letter he sent to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr, chief U. S. delegate to the UN.

"Our Senate committee findings as to the unworthiness of this group were unanimous," O'Conor wrote.

"They valued their U. S. citizenship so lightly that they refused to cooperate in the effort to ferret out traitors who at that time were seeking to overthrow the basic institutions of our country through force and violence.

"Not only did they hide behind Constitutional privileges in refusing to answer questions as to Communist affiliations, but they strove to defeat the purposes of the Senate investigation."

O'Conor cited the report of a Federal grand jury in New York which investigated and found "startling evidence of infilitration of the United Nations by a large group of disloyal U. S. citizens, many closely associated with the international communist movement."

"To reward these undeserving persons," O'Conor wrote, "would be an insult to patriotic citizens of the United States. This payment, if made, will be heralded by the communists as another victory and will lessen the prestige of the United Nations in the estimation of the American public."

O'Conor commended Lodge for opposing the payments.

Two Military Men Selected For Scholarship

TOWSON, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—Two military men were selected from a field of 10 today to represent the Maryland-District of Columbia area in further screening as Rhodes Scholarship candidates.

The two chosen to go to Philadelphia Saturday for further consideration are John T. Hamilton, 21, a cadet at West Point, and 1st Lt. Lee M. Holmes, 23, in the Marine Corps stationed at Burin Field, Pensacola, Fla.

Fairchild Plans Flight Research

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 8 (AP)—Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. announced today it has appropriated more than a million dollars of its own funds for a study of ways of increasing flight range by reducing drag.

The firm has been engaged in such research since 1951. It has contracts for research work with Mississippi State University, the University of Wichita and Princeton.

Estimates are that 10 to 12 per cent increases in efficiency can ultimately be achieved with present power plants without increasing fuel consumption.

"Progress in the Fairchild and university programs have now reached a point at which it is considered that additional funds should be applied to further development," said R. S. Boutelle, firm president.

One phase of the accelerated program will follow testing of a C-123 Avitruc, now in production here with two tip mounted J-44 jet engines for augmented thrust. A test flight program is scheduled for within the next 30 days.

CAMBRIDGE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Weldon Thomas, 33-year-old part-time barber from Wingate, was acquitted today of a charge of being one of four men who robbed a Bishops Head waterman of $6,800.

The jury deliberated 45 minutes before returning the verdict. There was a burst of applause that set off some gavel-banging by Judge W. Laird Henry. Mrs. Thomas wept; her husband showed no emotion.

Minutes later, the State was left without a case in the robbery and beating of 62-year-old Winnie E. Jones. State's Atty. Calvin Brinsfield told Judge Henry no effort would be made to prosecute Johnny Parks, 24, of Wingate, indicted with Thomas on a charge of robbery.

Judge Henry then declared Parks innocent. No one else has been charged in the case.

Jones was robbed last July 17 whn he returned to his home at Bishops Head after a Saturday night trip to Cambridge. He testified he hadn't been to a bank "in a right smart time—maybe 15 or 20 years" and had $6,800 with him.

Veterans Get Less Benefits Now Than During Civil War

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary Rehabilitation Conference were told today veterans are getting fewer benefits now — in proportion to the national budget — than the United States provided after the Civil War.

The cost of veterans benefits has dropped to less than one per cent of the federal budget, according to Chester F. Naumowicz of Silver Spring, a member of the Legion's rehabilitation committee.

"In the 1870, five years after the Civil War, veterans made up only 4.5 per cent of the population, yet 9.9 per cent of the total federal budget was for veterans' benefits," said Naumowicz.

He added that two years after World War I had ended, the veteran population was 4.8 per cent and the cost of veterans' benefits was 7.7 per cent of the Federal budget.

Naumowicz said the veteran population percentage in 1953 was 12.6 per cent. He told the conference VA benefits have declined from a peak of 16.5 per cent of the Federal expenditures in 1950 to 5.8 per cent in 1953.

Naumowicz was the first of a score of speakers to address the two-day conference being attended by delegates from eight states.

The conference is an annual event designed for discussions of plans for carrying on the veterans' rehabilitation program maintained by the auxiliary.

Mrs. B. D. Ward, Kingwood, W. Va., chairman of the auxiliary's rehabilitation committee, is presiding at the conference.

O'Conor Blasts Damages Given Ex-UN Employes

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Former U. S. Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor said today the award of $179,000 in damages to eleven discharged employes of the United Nations is "an insult to patriotic citizens of the United States."

The former senator, a Maryland Democrat, headed a committee which two years ago conducted hearings on charges the UN secretariat had been infiltrated by U.S. subversives.

Eleven UN employes were discharged when they invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer questions at the senate committee hearings. An administrative tribunal of the UN subsequently awarded them the $179,000 in damages and back pay.

The protest O'Conor made today was embodied in a letter he sent to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr, chief U. S. delegate to the UN.

"Our Senate committee findings as to the unworthiness of this group were unanimous," O'Conor wrote.

"They valued their U. S. citizenship so lightly that they refused to cooperate in the effort to ferret out traitors who at that time were seeking to overthrow the basic institutions of our country through force and violence.

"Not only did they hide behind Constitutional privileges in refusing to answer questions as to Communist affiliations, but they strove to defeat the purposes of the Senate investigation."

O'Conor cited the report of a Federal grand jury in New York which investigated and found "startling evidence of infiltration of the United Nations by a large group of disloyal U. S. citizens, many closely associated with the international communist movement."

"To reward these undeserving persons," O'Conor wrote, "would be an insult to patriotic citizens of the United States. This payment, if made, will be heralded by the communists as another victory and will lessen the prestige of the United Nations in the estimation of the American public."

O'Conor commended Lodge for opposing the payments.

Social Security:

New Era Seen For American Farmers In Plan

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Most American farmers will start harvesting a strange new crop next year: social security. In effect, this brings a far-reaching new era to agriculture.

For more than 20 years of mushrooming growth, the federal system for retirement or death benefits hardly scratched the surface on the farm. Fluctuating, hard-to-figure incomes, a tendency toward scant bookkeeping, and shifting workers presented special problems considered too tough to tackle.

Now, officials believe, these problems have been ironed out. The new social security law extends coverage to an estimated 3,600,000 farm operators—people farming for themselves; and to about 2,100,000 farm laborers—people doing farm work for others.

In the past, only about 700,000 farm laborers have been covered; in the future, all but about 700,000 out of a working farm population of roughly seven million will be covered.

Those who are covered, and their employers, will make regular payments to the Old Age and Survivors Insurance system (OASI). In return, they can get monthly benefits when they retire at age 65; or if they die beforehand, their survivors can get monthly benefits. These benefits range from $30 monthly for an individual up to $200 monthly for a family.

Here are the rules:

Farm Operators

In the past, farm operators have not been covered at all. Starting Jan. 1, 1955, they are covered if they make as much as $400 profit a year.

They will be required to make a special social security tax return when they file their regular income tax return. Thus, the first return will be due early in 1956.

The farm operators get a special privilege. If their total income for the year is below $1,800, they don't have to figure their net income or actual profit. They can just report half their gross income. If they do figure their net income, they can report that. In other words, the choice is up to them.

If tital income is above $1,800, the farm operator must figure his net income or profit. If these net earnings are less than $900, he has aother choice. He can report his actual earnings, or $900—whichever he chooses.

Both his taxes and his benefits will depend on his reported income. He pays a special social security tax of 3 per cent of his reported income, up to $4,200 a year. His benefits will be based on his average income over the period he is covered. The higher the income, the bigger the benefits.

Farm Laborers

Under the old law, farm laborers were covered if they were "regularly" hired by one employer and received cash wages of $50 or more from that employer in a three-month period, or quarter. The definitions were complex and records had to be kept over a long period to determine if a worker were covered.

Under the new law, the simple test is that the worker, to be covered, must be paid $100 by a single employer in a calendar year. The employer must deduct 2 per cent of these wages when they are paid, and add another 2 per cent of his own. The employer turns all this over to the government. The worker himself has no returns to make.

If a worker earns $75 a year from one employer and $75 from another, he is not covered. If he earns $150 from one employer and $150 from another, both employers must make their deductions and send in their returns on the worker.

The employer's report must include each worker's name wages paid him and social security number. A farm operator also must include his social security number in his own return.

Like others under the system, farmers must have at least 18 months coverage to become eligible for benefits.

Next: What social security does for you after retirement.

Simple Gadget Helps Relieve Blood Clotting

By JOHN F. DAFFRON

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — A simple gadget that can give a hospital patient the tonic effects of a round of golf in the comfort of his bed may put an end to one of the surgeon's most disconcerting announcements: "The operation was a success but the patient died."

At least the Medical College of Virginia Hospital has high hopes in that direction, based on the use of the machine in 2,600 cases here and elsewhere without a reported death from two major causes of post-operative fatality. These are shock due to a sharp fall in blood pressure and the sludging of blood that may clot, break loose and slam into the lungs with fatal effects. Clotting used to kill about 1 in 100 but the figure is lower now since patients are made to get up and around earlier.

Dr. Frank L. Apperly, head of the college's Pathology Department and Associate M. Katherine Cary devised the machine which merely uses low voltage electrical current to stimulate muscles of the legs and lower spine area into doing what they do normally in an active person—contract and pump the blood back through the veins to the heart which steps up the pressure and sends it back again.

This artificial muscle contraction used promptly after operations keeps the blood flowing at safe pressures and prevents thickening of the blood which begins almost immediately if the flow is arrested.

The machine—about the size of a small portable phonograph—sends its current into the leg and back muscles through electrodes strapped to the body. The muscles contract at a rate the operator may determine—usually a dozen or so times a minute.

Dr. Apperly said the results look so promising he felt sooner or later the technique would be almost universally adopted for surgery.

New Cancer Weapon Found

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8 (AP)—A new method of fighting cancer with radioactive nylon ribbon will be reported to a continent wide meeting of X-ray specialists here this week.

New and better methods of filming organs deep within the body also will be reported.

be explained by Dr. Ulrich K. Henschke of Ohio State University School of Medicine. The ribbon contains radioactive substances which give off cancer-killing rays. It is threaded through cancancerous tissue and left there to do its work.

The meeting is the 40th annual convention of the Radiological Society of North America. About 1,500 X-ray specialists will attend.

Naval Fliers Seek Aid For Woman Who Helped Them During The War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Former members of a naval air squadron were organizing to help a Vietnamese woman who told of suffering years of imprisonment for trying to rescue some of their buddies shot down in World War II.

The woman, Mrs. Andre Pagnon, now is reported living at Cote d'Azure, Marseilles, France, after her ordeal first at the hands of the Japanese, then of the Communist Vietminh. She said in Saigon, Indochina, after her release that she was forced to leave her 2-month-old daughter with Vietminh jailers when they set her free with her husband, a French soldier and prisoner of war, last Aug. 31.

Philip Pinder, formerly of Miami and now of Washington, D.C., said he is trying to reach all former members of Squadron VPB 25 to enlist their aid in efforts to have the child released and to offer financial assistance to Mrs. Pagnon if she needs it. Pinder, now a civilian engineer for the Navy's Bureau of Ships, was a member of the squadron, but not of the plane crew which was shot down off the Indochina coast, Jan. 26, 1945.

Mrs. Pagnon told U.S. Embassy officials in Saigon she hid the 11 American airmen, but was arrested by the Japanese after they saw one of the men escape to a U.S. submarine.

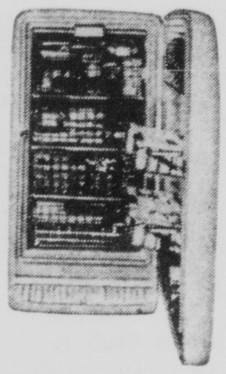

After The Associated Press distributed the woman's story, one of the two known survivors of the plane crew, former Ens. William A. Quinn of Elmhurst, Ill., came to the AP office in Chicago, offering verification of her account and details of the subsequent history of the men, six of whom he said were executed by the Japanese.

Pinder said today he has established contact with a few of the members of the squadron, which embraced 170 enlisted men and 56 officers. He said his group has written to Mrs. Pagnon but as yet has received no answer, and that it has started inquiries at the State Department about the possibility of helping recover her child. There was no immediate comment at the State Department.

Social Security:

New Era Seen For American Farmers In Plan

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Most American farmers will start harvesting a strange new crop next year: social security. In effect, this brings a far-reaching new era to agriculture.

For more than 20 years of mushrooming growth, the federal system for retirement or death benefits hardly scratched the surface on the farm. Fluctuating, hard-to-figure incomes, a tendency toward scant bookkeeping, and shifting workers presented special problems considered too tough to tackle.

Now, officials believe, these problems have been ironed out. The new social security law extends coverage to an estimated 3,600,000 farm operators—people farming for themselves; and to about 2,100,000 farm laborers—people doing farm work for others.

In the past, only about 700,000 farm laborers have been covered; in the future, all but about 700,000 out of a working farm population of roughly seven million will be covered.

Those who are covered, and their employers, will make regular payments to the Old Age and Survivors Insurance system (OASI). In return, they can get monthly benefits when they retire at age 65; or if they die beforehand, their survivors can get monthly benefits. These benefits range from $30 monthly for an individual up to $200 monthly for a family.

Here are the rules:

Farm Operators

In the past, farm operators have not been covered at all. Starting Jan. 1, 1955, they are covered if they make as much as $400 profit a year.

They will be required to make a special social security tax return when they file their regular income tax return. Thus, the first return will be due early in 1956.

The farm operators get a special privilege. If their total income for the year is below $1,800, they don't have to figure their net income or actual profit. They can just report half their gross income. If they do figure their net income, they can report that. In other words, the choice is up to them.

If tital income is above $1,800, the farm operator must figure his net income or profit. If these net earnings are less than $900, he has aother choice. He can report his actual earnings, or $900—whichever he chooses.

Both his taxes and his benefits will depend on his reported income. He pays a special social security tax of 3 per cent of his reported income, up to $4,200 a year. His benefits will be based on his average income over the period he is covered. The higher the income, the bigger the benefits.

Farm Laborers

Under the old law, farm laborers were covered if they were "regularly" hired by one employer and received cash wages of $50 or more from that employer in a three-month period, or quarter. The definitions were complex and records had to be kept over a long period to determine if a worker were covered.

Under the new law, the simple test is that the worker, to be covered, must be paid $100 by a single employer in a calendar year. The employer must deduct 2 per cent of these wages when they are paid, and add another 2 per cent of his own. The employer turns all this over to the government. The worker himself has no returns to make.

If a worker earns $75 a year from one employer and $75 from another, he is not covered. If he earns $150 from one employer and $150 from another, both employers must make their deductions and send in their returns on the worker.

The employer's report must include each worker's name wages paid him and social security number. A farm operator also must include his social security number in his own return.

Like others under the system, farmers must have at least 18 months coverage to become eligible for benefits.

Simple Gadget Helps Relieve Blood Clotting

By JOHN F. DAFFRON

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — A simple gadget that can give a hospital patient the tonic effects of a round of golf in the comfort of his bed may put an end to one of the surgeon's most disconcerting announcements: "The operation was a success but the patient died."

At least the Medical College of Virginia Hospital has high hopes in that direction, based on the use of the machine in 2,600 cases here and elsewhere without a reported death from two major causes of post-operative fatality. These are shock due to a sharp fall in blood pressure and the sludging of blood that may clot, break loose and slam into the lungs with fatal effects. Clotting used to kill about 1 in 100 but the figure is lower now since patients are made to get up and around earlier.

Dr. Frank L. Apperly, head of the college's Pathology Department and Associate M. Katherine Cary devised the machine which merely uses low voltage electrical current to stimulate muscles of the legs and lower spine area into doing what they do normally in an active person—contract and pump the blood back through the veins to the heart which steps up the pressure and sends it back again.

This artificial muscle contraction used promptly after operations keeps the blood flowing at safe pressures and prevents thickening of the blood which begins almost immediately if the flow is arrested.

The machine—about the size of a small portable phonograph—sends its current into the leg and back muscles through electrodes strapped to the body. The muscles contract at a rate the operator may determine—usually a dozen or so times a minute.

Dr. Apperly said the results look so promising he felt sooner or later the technique would be almost universally adopted for surgery.

New Cancer Weapon Found

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8 (AP)—A new method of fighting cancer with radioactive nylon ribbon will be reported to a continent wide meeting of X-ray specialists here this week.

New and better methods of filming organs deep within the body also will be reported.

be explained by Dr. Ulrich K. Henschke of Ohio State University School of Medicine. The ribbon contains radioactive substances which give off cancer-killing rays. It is threaded through cancancerous tissue and left there to do its work.

The meeting is the 40th annual convention of the Radiological Society of North America. About 1,500 X-ray specialists will attend.

Naval Fliers Seek Aid For Woman Who Helped Them During The War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — Former members of a naval air squadron were organizing to help a Vietnamese woman who told of suffering years of imprisonment for trying to rescue some of their buddies shot down in World War II.

The woman, Mrs. Andre Pagnon, now is reported living at Cote d'Azure, Marseilles, France, after her ordeal first at the hands of the Japanese, then of the Communist Vietminh. She said in Saigon, Indochina, after her release that she was forced to leave her 2-month-old daughter with Vietminh jailers when they set her free with her husband, a French soldier and prisoner of war, last Aug. 31.

Philip Pinder, formerly of Miami and now of Washington, D.C., said he is trying to reach all former members of Squadron VPB 25 to enlist their aid in efforts to have the child released and to offer financial assistance to Mrs. Pagnon if she needs it. Pinder, now a civilian engineer for the Navy's Bureau of Ships, was a member of the squadron, but not of the plane crew which was shot down off the Indochina coast, Jan. 26, 1945.

Mrs. Pagnon told U.S. Embassy officials in Saigon she hid the 11 American airmen, but was arrested by the Japanese after they saw one of the men escape to a U.S. submarine.

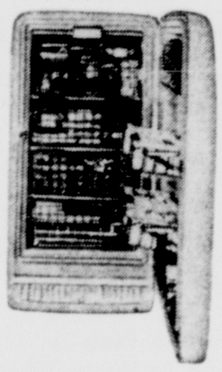

After The Associated Press distributed the woman's story, one of the two known survivors of the plane crew, former Ens. William A. Quinn of Elmhurst, Ill., came to the AP office in Chicago, offering verification of her account and details of the subsequent history of the men, six of whom he said were executed by the Japanese.

Pinder said today he has established contact with a few of the members of the squadron, which embraced 170 enlisted men and 56 officers. He said his group has written to Mrs. Pagnon but as yet has received no answer, and that it has started inquiries at the State Department about the possibility of helping recover her child. There was no immediate comment at the State Department.

GIFT SUGGESTION — More and more women ars discovering that knitting is fun. Beginning knitters appreciate things that are quick and easy to make, and are sure to bring in compliments. Most popular items, therefore, are the little sweater shrugs and boleros, shown above, that present no complicated problems, are done in simple stitch, and can be glamorous if done in one of the decorative yarns, such as fluffy angora or one of the new glitter yarns with glints of metallic thread. These make highly appreciated Christmas gifts, as well as useful assets to the personal wardrobe. Knitting is becoming known as effective therapy. It gives you something to do with your hands while watching TV. Some psychiatrists prescribe it to quiet the nerves and promote relaxation.

GIFT SUGGESTION — More and more women ars discovering that knitting is fun. Beginning knitters appreciate things that are quick and easy to make, and are sure to bring in compliments. Most popular items, therefore, are the little sweater shrugs and boleros, shown above, that present no complicated problems, are done in simple stitch, and can be glamorous if done in one of the decorative yarns, such as fluffy angora or one of the new glitter yarns with glints of metallic thread. These make highly appreciated Christmas gifts, as well as useful assets to the personal wardrobe. Knitting is becoming known as effective therapy. It gives you something to do with your hands while watching TV. Some psychiatrists prescribe it to quiet the nerves and promote relaxation.

Allegany-Garrett Auxiliary Names SC Representative

A representative to the Safety Council and chairman for the spring bazaar were named and reports given at the meeting of the Allegany Garrett County Firemen's Auxiliary executive board, held Tuesday evening in the Ellerslie fire hall.

In response to the letter received from the Safety Council asking for a representative to be named to the council, Mrs. Elda Schell of the LaVale Auxiliary was appointed representative.

Midland Auxiliary invited the county to hold its spring bazaar in its town and Mrs. Arvella Lohr, of Midland, was named chairman of this committee. Further plans for the bazaar will be discussed at the next meeting, to be held in March.

The Ellerslie Auxiliary was hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Martha Albright, president of the Ellerslie Auxiliary, welcomed the group, after which Mrs. Alma Wilt, of District 16, county president, presided. Eleven auxiliaries answered roll call with 53 members present. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, of LaVale, chaplain and routine reports were given by Mrs. Laura E. Shuhart, Barton; and Mrs. Hilda Phillips, Lonaconing. Representatives of the various auxiliaries reported on some of the activities of their groups.

Profit During Year Is Cited By B&O

Despite the drop in traffic, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has been able to show a profit for every month of this year.

After provision for fixed and contingent interest, but before capital and sinking funds, the railroad had a net income of $11,666,518 for the first ten months compared with $23,480,172.

Freight traffic during November showed the smallest year-to-year decline for any month this year.

The company reported that it handled 222,336 carloads last month as compared with 230,004 for November a year ago, a decrease of only 3.3 per cent.

Loadings for November were exceeded this year only in October when the total was 213,359.

The largest year-to-year increase in any item last month was that of about 28 per cent in grain loadings, which came to 8,923 cars against 6,971 a year earlier.

Coal traffic was a little ahead of last year at 50,265 cars against 50,188 in November, 1953. Miscellaneous traffic also showed an increase at 51,091 against 48,859 a year ago.

Comparison, however, was made with a period last year when business was just starting a slide which continued with little interruption until around the middle of last summer.

A slight turn for the better began to show up in July and moderate improvements (after seasonal adjustment) continued right through last month.

Non-fattening cola is one of the things you can enjoy while dieting . . . read about others today.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Remember when keeping weight down meant virtual starvation? Psychological starvation, anyway, with the dieter nibbling plain lettuce while others helped themselves to salad with calorie-loaded dressings.

In recent years, the outlook has brightened for pound-trimmers. Food industry laboratories have developed low-calorie versions of normally fattening foods. So if you can't say "no" to a thick slice of layer cake, you can at least have it made with low-calorie ingredients.

Food is fuel for your body. It is measured in units of heat known as calories. If you take in more fuel than the body needs, you will store it in the form of fat. If you take in less, you burn stored-up fat — then you must eat to gain weight rather than to lose.

Essential Nutrients

Besides keeping tab on your calorie consumption, be sure your food intake supplies sufficient amounts of vitamins, minerals, and other key nutrients. You may discover you control weight most easily by getting the required nutrients in basic foods, and eating low-calorie items as menu "trimmings."

Among the trimmings may be candies containing only one-and-a-half calories apiece, or non-fattening cola with the same minimum number of calories to the six-ounce glass.

Try fruit and vegetable juices canned with non-nutritive sweetener; soup cubes that make fine broth with only seven calories per bowl; sugar-free jams, jellies, and cookies; mayonnaise and French dressings in non-fattening form. You can allow yourself pancakes and waffles, if they are made with soya flour, and topped by calorie-reduced syrup.

Enjoying Food

There's even a low-calorie chewing gum. Sounds silly? Well, the whole purpose of the special diet items I've mentioned is to permit the weight-watcher to have the fun of enjoying what other enjoy, and to see the pounds slipping away at the same time.

One thing definitely has disappeared with the growth of the diet foods industry. That's the excuse. It used to take a good one to rationalize the chunk of frosted cake you found irresistable. But this is an age in which you can have your cake and your diet, too!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! Kimble To Confer With City Officials

Senator Robert B. Kimble will confer with the Mayor and Council of Cumberland on the possibilities of providing city water to the District 16 area.

The senator promised to take the matter up with city officials following a conference of the District 16 Improvement Association with the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

Delegate Charles M. See, delegation chairman, said the association reported its primary purpose is to secure city water for the Oldtown Road area.

He said the possibility of forming a special taxing area was discussed, but that no definite action was taken.

Del. See said Sen. Kimble and all of the delegates feel that the District 16 section of the county could be improved to a great extent if water is available for domestic purposes and for fire protection.

Clyde O'Baker is chairman of the association and Kenneth Long is co-chairman.

Post Office Plans To Remain Open Longer This Weekend

To take care of those who wish to do their Christmas mailing in time to reach its destinations, the Cumberland Post Office and its Station A on Virginia Avenue will be open additional hours this weekend.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said all windows will be open until 5 p. m. Saturday. The regular Saturday hours are 8 a. m. to noon.

Sunday, both postoffices will be open from noon to 4 p. m., Conlon added.

All windows, including parcel post, will be in service.

The dramatic recruiting slogan, "Uncle Sam Needs You," has been adopted by Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon in an effort to get local Christmas mail processed earlier than in previous years.

Christmas mail and packages are arriving at the post office far too slowly, Conlon pointed out.

"The big danger is that commercial shipments and incoming Christmas mail may slow up the outgoing operation. Poorly wrapped packages have also complicated the work at the post office, Conlon added.

Cancellations are averaging about 27,000 pieces of mail daily, the postmaster stated, adding that at the peak of the Christmas season, this will be increased to approximately 150,000 pieces daily.

Christmas packages for out-of-state destinations should be mailed immediately, Christmas cards out-of-state should be mailed before December 15, and those with local addresses at least a week before Christmas, Conlon said, to insure early delivery.

New Demo Quarterback Is Hot Irish Fan

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8 (AP)—A rabid Notre Dame fan who spends fall Saturday afternoons crumpling his hat into unrecognizable shapes while his beloved Irish grind out their usual victories is going to quarterback the Democratic party for the next two years.

Paul Mulholland Butler of South Bend, Ind., a quiet but intense Irishman of 49, moves Jan. 1 into the national chairmanship. An old, hot-tempered Irish friend, Stephen A. Mitchell, voluntarily is vacating to resume private law practice.

Elected by 70 of the National Committee's 105 votes yesterday in the first free-for-all choice of its kind within the party in 40 years, Butler picks up the task of getting the Democratic organization in shape for its effort to regain the presidency in the 1956 election.

At the start, it can be said that almost nobody in the Democratic party looks less like the average citizen's conception of a political boss.

Slender, gray-haired, of medium height and impeccably dressed, Butler looks the part of the corporation lawyer he is in private life. "Ascetic" is the term most often applied to him by those who meet him for the first time.

In the sense that "ascetic" denotes a person who leads an abstemious life, Butler goes a long way toward proving the adjective is right. He neither drinks nor smokes, partly, perhaps because he is a diabetic kept vigorous and active by insulin.

When Butler's actions are considered, "ascetic" loses its allied meanings. Although he does not drink, he worked hard for repeal of prohibition, mixes what his wife, Ann, considers a good cocktail and maintains a small bar in his home for his friends.

Although he has a quiet nature, Butler warms quickly to people, makes friends easily and rapidly is getting on the first-name basis of acquaintanceship with politicians, newsmen and others regarded as so essential by a long line of former chairmen.

Butler, the father of three boys and two girls, is going to leave his family in South Bend when he moves to Washington to take over the chairmanship. He said he expects to be at "the beck and call" of local party leaders and do a great deal of traveling.

Characteristically, Butler said he is taking the initiative in seeking a conference with Truman as a part of what he said is the biggest job before him, to mould party harmony.

Butler likes to regard himself as in the so-called "liberal" wing of the party. He has worked closely with Mitchell while the latter was chairman and wants to continue what both refer to as the "new look" the party is assuming.

Engineers Elect Sellers

Nelson H. Sellers, section engineer in charge of instrumentation at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, has been elected president of the Engineers Club of Cumberland for 1955.

Other officers, chosen by the executive committee, include William E. Toms, vice president, succeeding Mr. Sellers; B. J. Paladino, secretary, succeeding James C. Duff, and A. E. Chenowith, treasurer, succeeding Walter L. Shack.

Sellers succeeds Elmer J. Hite, district engineer of the C. and P. Telephone Company. The new president is a mechanical engineer, having graduated at the head of his class from West Virginia University. Post Office Plans To Remain Open Longer This Weekend

To take care of those who wish to do their Christmas mailing in time to reach its destinations, the Cumberland Post Office and its Station A on Virginia Avenue will be open additional hours this weekend.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said all windows will be open until 5 p. m. Saturday. The regular Saturday hours are 8 a. m. to noon.

Sunday, both postoffices will be open from noon to 4 p. m., Conlon added.

All windows, including parcel post, will be in service.

The dramatic recruiting slogan, "Uncle Sam Needs You," has been adopted by Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon in an effort to get local Christmas mail processed earlier than in previous years.

Christmas mail and packages are arriving at the post office far too slowly, Conlon pointed out.

"The big danger is that commercial shipments and incoming Christmas mail may slow up the outgoing operation. Poorly wrapped packages have also complicated the work at the post office, Conlon added.

Cancellations are averaging about 27,000 pieces of mail daily, the postmaster stated, adding that at the peak of the Christmas season, this will be increased to approximately 150,000 pieces daily.

Christmas packages for out-of-state destinations should be mailed immediately, Christmas cards out-of-state should be mailed before December 15, and those with local addresses at least a week before Christmas, Conlon said, to insure early delivery.

New Demo Quarterback Is Hot Irish Fan

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8 (AP)—A rabid Notre Dame fan who spends fall Saturday afternoons crumpling his hat into unrecognizable shapes while his beloved Irish grind out their usual victories is going to quarterback the Democratic party for the next two years.

Paul Mulholland Butler of South Bend, Ind., a quiet but intense Irishman of 49, moves Jan. 1 into the national chairmanship. An old, hot-tempered Irish friend, Stephen A. Mitchell, voluntarily is vacating to resume private law practice.

Elected by 70 of the National Committee's 105 votes yesterday in the first free-for-all choice of its kind within the party in 40 years, Butler picks up the task of getting the Democratic organization in shape for its effort to regain the presidency in the 1956 election.

At the start, it can be said that almost nobody in the Democratic party looks less like the average citizen's conception of a political boss.

Slender, gray-haired, of medium height and impeccably dressed, Butler looks the part of the corporation lawyer he is in private life. "Ascetic" is the term most often applied to him by those who meet him for the first time.

In the sense that "ascetic" denotes a person who leads an abstemious life, Butler goes a long way toward proving the adjective is right. He neither drinks nor smokes, partly, perhaps because he is a diabetic kept vigorous and active by insulin.

When Butler's actions are considered, "ascetic" loses its allied meanings. Although he does not drink, he worked hard for repeal of prohibition, mixes what his wife, Ann, considers a good cocktail and maintains a small bar in his home for his friends.

Although he has a quiet nature, Butler warms quickly to people, makes friends easily and rapidly is getting on the first-name basis of acquaintanceship with politicians, newsmen and others regarded as so essential by a long line of former chairmen.

Butler, the father of three boys and two girls, is going to leave his family in South Bend when he moves to Washington to take over the chairmanship. He said he expects to be at "the beck and call" of local party leaders and do a great deal of traveling.

Characteristically, Butler said he is taking the initiative in seeking a conference with Truman as a part of what he said is the biggest job before him, to mould party harmony.

Butler likes to regard himself as in the so-called "liberal" wing of the party. He has worked closely with Mitchell while the latter was chairman and wants to continue what both refer to as the "new look" the party is assuming.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Frost, are two other daughters, Mrs. Glenn Schneider, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Maude Carnahan, New York; four grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Commies To Seek Right To Strike In Capitalist Nations

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Communist trade union chiefs, meeting in Warsaw, are going to demand the right to strike. They are not reforming. There's still no right to strike in Communist countries. They are talking only about capitalist nations.

The General Council of the World Federation of Trade Unions, a tool of Moscow's propaganda and policies, is in session in Communist-ruled Poland. The Council professes to be deeply concerned with the woes of labor. The announced aim of the meeting is to draw up a "charter of trade union rights"—but only for unions in non-Communist lands.

The Soviet "trade union" newspaper Trud says the draft charter will demand, for example, "the right of all trade unions to carry out their functions without interference or control on the part of administrative authorities or employers."

(In Communist countries, the trade union is an organ of the government, owned by it and directed by it, subject wholly to its orders.)

Trud went on: The charter would demand "the right of trade unions to negotiate and sign collective agreements satisfying the interests of the workers."

(In Communist countries, including the U.S.S.R., the government submits the "agreement to the union.)

The charter, said Trud, will demand the right for all workers to strike "in all forms without any restrictions, and the forbidding of any measures directed against a worker in punishment for the exercising of his right to strike."

(A strike in a Communist country is an act of sabotage against the government, punishable by the most severe of sentences. Attempts at strikes in Communist countries are put down by troops.)

The charter, said Trud, will demand "the right of trade unions to participate in the determination of social and economic policies and in making of laws directly or indirectly interesting the workers."

(In Communist countries, there are laws which send workers to prison or "corrective labor" for such things as "unwarranted absence," lateness to work, unauthorized changing of jobs and similar offenses. The law in a Communist country chains a worker to his job and forbids him to change it without explicit direction of the government. The worker can be sent to work wherever the government chooses to send him. Norms are set for his production in a speedup called "Stakhanovism" or "socialist competition." When a speedup worker ups his quota, that becomes the norm for all the workers in a given enterprise.)

Keyser Council Views Report On Finances

KEYSER—At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Keyser city council held Monday afternoon, Carl F. Theis, Jr., city clerk, gave a report on the city's financial condition up to that time.

Theis said receipts in November amounted to $18,551.24, and with the balance on hand November 1, of $6,533.31, totalled $25,084.55.

Amounts paid out in November, amounted to $8,941.50, leaving a balance of $16,143.05. Checks issued in December to the 7th, totaled $2,461.65. Bills to that date, amount to $3,000. A balance estimated at $10,681.40, was indicated.

The city recreation department had a balance December 1, of $6,227.95. Balance in the swimming pool fund is $9,358.63. No pool fund disbursements were made in November.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

DANIEL T. KITZMILLER

Daniel T. Kitzmiller, 82, the "Uncle Sam" of many Washington parades, father of Mrs. Clara N. Frost, 1619 Ford Avenue, died Monday night at the United States Soldiers Home in Washington.

His death followed an illness of several months. The genial Spanish-American War Veteran had a typical Uncle Sam beard which he kept meticulously cut spade-fashion.

In his starred and striped red, white and blue trousers, jacket and top hat, Mr. Kitzmiller could be counted on for picture-taking purposes on Pennsylvania Avenue whenever a parade was held.

His last march as Uncle Sam was in the Eisenhower Inaugural. A native of Ellicott City, he was a son of the late Daniel S. and Mary E Kitzmiller.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Frost, are two other daughters, Mrs. Glenn Schneider, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Maude Carnahan, New York; four grandchildren and a great grandchild.

A funeral service will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Soldiers Home with interment in the cemetery there.

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lynda Karen Thrush, nine-month-old daughter of Albert Vause Thrush Jr., and Maxine Laverne (Stickley) Thrush, Burlington, died Tuesday in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where she was a patient for two weeks.

Besides her parents, the infant is survived by her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stickley; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Etta Albert; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nina L. Thrush, all of Burlington.

The body is at the home of the parents where a service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. with Rev. Vernon Cale, pastor of the Burlington Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in Burlington Cemetery.

BIBBY SERVICES

Bibby, who died suddenly yesterday at her home in Baltimore, will be held today at 9 a. m. at the St. Ignatius Catholic Church, Calvert and Madison Streets, Baltimore. Burial will be in Cambridge, Md. The body is at the William J. Tichner and Sons, Funeral Home, North and Pennsylvania avenues, Baltimore.

Commies To Seek Right To Strike In Capitalist Nations

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Communist trade union chiefs, meeting in Warsaw, are going to demand the right to strike. They are not reforming. There's still no right to strike in Communist countries. They are talking only about capitalist nations.

The General Council of the World Federation of Trade Unions, a tool of Moscow's propaganda and policies, is in session in Communist-ruled Poland. The Council professes to be deeply concerned with the woes of labor. The announced aim of the meeting is to draw up a "charter of trade union rights"—but only for unions in non-Communist lands.

The Soviet "trade union" newspaper Trud says the draft charter will demand, for example, "the right of all trade unions to carry out their functions without interference or control on the part of administrative authorities or employers."

(In Communist countries, the trade union is an organ of the government, owned by it and directed by it, subject wholly to its orders.)

Trud went on: The charter would demand "the right of trade unions to negotiate and sign collective agreements satisfying the interests of the workers."

(In Communist countries, including the U.S.S.R., the government submits the "agreement to the union.)

The charter, said Trud, will demand the right for all workers to strike "in all forms without any restrictions, and the forbidding of any measures directed against a worker in punishment for the exercising of his right to strike."

(A strike in a Communist country is an act of sabotage against the government, punishable by the most severe of sentences. Attempts at strikes in Communist countries are put down by troops.)

The charter, said Trud, will demand "the right of trade unions to participate in the determination of social and economic policies and in making of laws directly or indirectly interesting the workers."

(In Communist countries, there are laws which send workers to prison or "corrective labor" for such things as "unwarranted absence," lateness to work, unauthorized changing of jobs and similar offenses. The law in a Communist country chains a worker to his job and forbids him to change it without explicit direction of the government. The worker can be sent to work wherever the government chooses to send him. Norms are set for his production in a speedup called "Stakhanovism" or "socialist competition." When a speedup worker ups his quota, that becomes the norm for all the workers in a given enterprise.)

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8—(INS)—You can no longer call Allied Artists the "little studio." It's become a big studio, and Monogram (the original name of Allied Artists) as Steve Broidy told the press at the Panhandle dinner, no longer exists.

The latest name to be signed by Allied Artists is Joel McCrea, popular western star, who made a deal with Walter Mirish. It's a multiple deal, and the first picture is "Wichita," set in the early days of Kansas when Wyatt Earp, with gun in hand, roamed the prairies. Dan Ulman has written th script, and Walter—Mirish, that is—is going to try his hand at producing the McCrea epic.

One of the happiest persons at Maureen and John Farrow's party was Mrs. Charles Boyer. Ch... s came home from Europe after being away from home with his stage play for a long time.

"He is so wonderful," said Pat. "The Queen Mary was 48 hours late because of a bad storm, and Charles, who is a wonderful sailor, was about the only one on deck. In fact, he stood with the captain and watched the mountainous waves.

"He didn't say one word about his bad trip but telephoned me the moment he landed and asked if Michael and I were all right and if the smog is as bad as newspapers all over the world reported."

If 20th had hoped to cash in on Richard Todd's British-made film "Dambusters" before it releases its "A Man Called Peter," also with Todd in the lead, it's in for an unpleasant surprise.

"Dambusters" is tied up by a lawsuit in England brought by the widow of the late RAF pilot Guy Gibson, whose exploits make up most of the film.

The fastest story purchase ever made in the history of Hollywood was turned by Bill Perlberg and George Seaton, who bought "Protection For A Tough Racket" by Cordelia Baird Gross within four days after Seaton read it in a magazine. Here's how it happened:

Seaton, thumbing through a current magazine, was attracted by the strange title and read the four-page story, which tells of a girl teacher in a school for problem boys. He called Bill in the middle of the night and read the story to him, and now they own it.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Marty Kimmel, Cloria De Haven's ex, is forgetting his trouble in New York with Sandra Scott, a very pretty girl.

Have Abigal Adams and George Jessel really reached the end of the road? She was stepping out at Charley Foy's with Valley druggist, Max Marks.

Keenan Wynn stopped by the Encore for a few minutes to greet pals and was asked when he expects his baby. "I gave up bicycle riding last Sunday and haven't missed that in years, so you know it's pretty close," quipped Keenan.

Maureen O'Sullivan's mother is so pretty and looks so young that she delighted everyone at the tea Maureen and John Farrow gave for her. Johnny found some pictures of Mrs. O'Sullivan taken with Maureen and her sister many years ago—she really was a beauty, and still is.

Merle Oberon, Norma Shearer, Lillian Gish, Mrs. Hal Roach, Mrs. Jack Bolton and many others were charmed by Mary O'Sullivan's wit and charm.

Sunday dinner at La Rue resulted in a lot of news. Cleo Moore came in with Travis Kleefield. She certainly has taken off weight and looks so different.

Eva Gabor, radiant over the success of her stage play, "Sailor's Delight," was with Arthur Loew Jr., and Kurt Kaszner. Later they were Mocamboing.

Sitting next to us were Charles and Anne Lederer, who are giving a big soiree New Year's Eve. They were with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Miller and Joe Cohen of MGM.

Dan Dailey escorted Jean Coyne, a very pretty brunette—and Mrs. Ruby Schinasi, visiting here, was with Ross Hunter, and he gave me some good news, which I'll tell you later.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8—(INS)—You can no longer call Allied Artists the "little studio." It's become a big studio, and Monogram (the original name of Allied Artists) as Steve Broidy told the press at the Panhandle dinner, no longer exists.

The latest name to be signed by Allied Artists is Joel McCrea, popular western star, who made a deal with Walter Mirish. It's a multiple deal, and the first picture is "Wichita," set in the early days of Kansas when Wyatt Earp, with gun in hand, roamed the prairies. Dan Ulman has written th script, and Walter—Mirish, that is—is going to try his hand at producing the McCrea epic.

One of the happiest persons at Maureen and John Farrow's party was Mrs. Charles Boyer. Ch... s came home from Europe after being away from home with his stage play for a long time.

"He is so wonderful," said Pat. "The Queen Mary was 48 hours late because of a bad storm, and Charles, who is a wonderful sailor, was about the only one on deck. In fact, he stood with the captain and watched the mountainous waves.

"He didn't say one word about his bad trip but telephoned me the moment he landed and asked if Michael and I were all right and if the smog is as bad as newspapers all over the world reported."

If 20th had hoped to cash in on Richard Todd's British-made film "Dambusters" before it releases its "A Man Called Peter," also with Todd in the lead, it's in for an unpleasant surprise.

"Dambusters" is tied up by a lawsuit in England brought by the widow of the late RAF pilot Guy Gibson, whose exploits make up most of the film.

The fastest story purchase ever made in the history of Hollywood was turned by Bill Perlberg and George Seaton, who bought "Protection For A Tough Racket" by Cordelia Baird Gross within four days after Seaton read it in a magazine. Here's how it happened:

Seaton, thumbing through a current magazine, was attracted by the strange title and read the four-page story, which tells of a girl teacher in a school for problem boys. He called Bill in the middle of the night and read the story to him, and now they own it.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Marty Kimmel, Gloria De Haven's ex, is forgetting his trouble in New York with Sandra Scott, a very pretty girl.

Have Abigal Adams and George Jessel really reached the end of the road? She was stepping out at Charley Foy's with Valley druggist, Max Marks.

Keenan Wynn stopped by the Encore for a few minutes to greet pals and was asked when he expects his baby. "I gave up bicycle riding last Sunday and haven't missed that in years, so you know it's pretty close," quipped Keenan.

Maureen O'Sullivan's mother is so pretty and looks so young that she delighted everyone at the tea Maureen and John Farrow gave for her. Johnny found some pictures of Mrs. O'Sullivan taken with Maureen and her sister many years ago—she really was a beauty, and still is.

Merle Oberon, Norma Shearer, Lillian Gish, Mrs. Hal Roach, Mrs. Jack Bolton and many others were charmed by Mary O'Sullivan's wit and charm.

Sunday dinner at La Rue resulted in a lot of news. Cleo Moore came in with Travis Kleefield. She certainly has taken off weight and looks so different.

Eva Gabor, radiant over the success of her stage play, "Sailor's Delight," was with Arthur Loew Jr., and Kurt Kaszner. Later they were Mocamboing.

Sitting next to us were Charles and Anne Lederer, who are giving a big soiree New Year's Eve. They were with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Miller and Joe Cohen of MGM.

Dan Dailey escorted Jean Coyne, a very pretty brunette—and Mrs. Ruby Schinasi, visiting here, was with Ross Hunter, and he gave me some good news, which I'll tell you later.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Two Scouts Will Receive Eagle Badges

The dates for the presentation of the highest Boy Scout rank to two youths in Cumberland District of Potomac Council have been set, according to Willis V. Smith, council executive.

The coveted Eagle Scout badge will be presented to David Stone of Troop 10, sponsored by LaVale Methodist Church, and Larry Cessna of Troop 4, sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church.

Stone will receive his pin at a court of honor to be conducted by his troop next Monday.

Cessna's presentation will take place during a regular Sunday church service of Centre Street Methodist Church January 2.

Stone and Cessna were approved for the highest honor by a board of review consisting of veteran Scout officials from all sections of the council.

The board of review also approved a gold palm to Eagle Scout Jerry Huff of Troop 50, sponsored of Mt. Savage. This appendage to the Eagle award is for additional merit badges.

In addition to getting the required number of 21 merit badges, the youths were given a thorough check as specified by the National Scout headquarters on their life in the home, neighborhood, church and school.

Those achieving the Eagle Scout award must produce concrete evidence that they have served their homes, neighborhoods, churches and schools well, Michael reported.

The required merit badges an Eagle Scout must pass are those on first aid, firemanship, swimming, nature, conservation, citizenship in home and community, personal health and life saving.

The board approving these two boys was comprised of Jack Towler, advancement chairman for Cumberland District, Dr. Paul Giffin, Keyser, New Creek District advancement chairman; Lester McDowell, Keyser, New Creek District commissioner; Robert Zarefoss, Frostburg, Mountain District advancement chairman, and Michael.

After being approved by this committee board, the two Scouts appeared before the council's executive board.

County Roads Benefit Under 12-Year Plan

Contracts totaling $1,535,939, for 7.713 miles of primary and secondary roads in Allegany have been awarded through November 30 by the State Roads Commission under its 12-year road rehabilitation program.

The total includes $300,609 for 1.609 miles in the primary system and $1,235,330 for 6.063 miles in the secondary system, the SRC said.

In Garrett County, contracts totaled $2,126,311 for 11.799 miles and in addition a $375,000 contract for 2.857 miles was advertised but not awarded.

Garrett County figures show $1,431,629 for 9.337 miles in the primary system; and $694,682 for 2.462 miles in the primary system; and $694,682 for 2.462 miles in the secondary system.

For the state as a whole, the State Roads Commission said contracts for $22,075,697 were advertised or awarded during October and November, representing the largest amount of highway construction funds committed by the state in any such previous period.

The program officially began last January 1 and $81,483,120 in contracts has been awarded or advertised so far. The contracts awarded amount to $62,665,120 and both categories cover 544 miles of new construction or rehabilitation.

Every county in the state is represented in the total. Of contracts awarded, $47,284,200 for 232 miles involves new roads or complete rehabilitation. The sum of $15,380,920, covering 217 miles is for morpieev covering 217 miles is for improvement to secondary roads system.

Bargaining Sought By Brotherhood

For the fifth time in nine years the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is making an attempt to unseat the Railroad Industrial Union as the representative union of the firemen, engineers and hostlers on the Western Maryland Railway.

The BLF&E has petitioned the National Mediation Board for an election among the three classes of employes to allow them to choose the union they want.

Elmer E. Davis, president of the Railroad Industrial Union, which has headquarters in the Clark-Keating Building, received notice of the action yesterday from E. C. Thompson, secretary of the National Mediation Board.

District 50 Selected

Davis recalled that in 1945 the firemen, engineers and hostlers chose District 50, of the United Mine Workers as its representative and bargaining agent.

He said the BLF&E attempted to get on the ballot but was barred by the board.

In 1947 there was an election upon the petition of the BLF&E and the Railroad Industrial Union was placed on the ballot as a new organization.

The RIU was chosen by the majority of the three groups of employes.

The brotherhood petitioned again in 1949 and in 1951 and was granted elections only to lose to the RIU.

In 1952 the brotherhood petitioned, but the board turned down the request for an election on the grounds that the two-year period between elections had not passed.

Statement Asked

Davis said the board has requested G. R. Haworth, vice president and general manager of the railroad to submit the number of employes in each classification on the entire system.

Haworth was invited to submit any statement he may care to with respect to the matter.

Davis will also submit a statement concerning this latest application.

The BLF&E informed the board that there was a "representation dispute" on the railroad among these employes, according to the application submitted by the brotherhood chairman, H. E. Gilbert.

Davis said the next step will find the board sending a mediator here to investigate the situation to determine if there is sufficient ground for a hearing.

If there are sufficient grounds, a hearing will be held and the board will then rule whether there is ample cause to hold an election, Davis added.

Draft Boards Induct Eight

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of Cumberland draft boards, has released the list of registrants slated to report today in Fairmont (W. Va.) for induction into the armed forces.

Leaving Selective Services headquarters on the second floor of the Post Office building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus will be:

Board 28—James Thomas Stafford, 307 Footer Place; Thomas Bernard Wigger, 535 Henderson Avenue, and Thomas Henry Connor, 220 Fulton Street.

Board 29—George Elliott Geatz, 11 South Smallwood Street; Ellis Forman Wisler Jr., Ellerslie; David Lewis Kendall Jr., also of Ellerslie; Howard Clark Longerbeam, Baltimore, formerly of LaVale, and Dale Thomas Hounshell, Mansfield, Ohio, formerly of Cresaptown.

The largest antlered creature on earth, an Alaskan bull moose, may weigh 1800 pounds, stand nearly eight feet high at the shoulders, and carry bulldozer-blade head appendages six feet across.

Contracts totaling $1,535,939, for 7.713 miles of primary and secondary roads in Allegany have been awarded through November 30 by the State Roads Commission under its 12-year road rehabilitation program.

The total includes $300,609 for 1.609 miles in the primary system and $1,235,330 for 6.063 miles in the secondary system, the SRC said.

In Garrett County, contracts totaled $2,126,311 for 11.799 miles and in addition a $375,000 contract for 2.857 miles was advertised but not awarded.

Garrett County figures show $1,431,629 for 9.337 miles in the primary system; and $694,682 for 2.462 miles in the primary system; and $694,682 for 2.462 miles in the secondary system.

For the state as a whole, the State Roads Commission said contracts for $22,075,697 were advertised or awarded during October and November, representing the largest amount of highway construction funds committed by the state in any such previous period.

The program officially began last January 1 and $81,483,120 in contracts has been awarded or advertised so far. The contracts awarded amount to $62,665,120 and both categories cover 544 miles of new construction or rehabilitation.

Every county in the state is represented in the total. Of contracts awarded, $47,284,200 for 232 miles involves new roads or complete rehabilitation. The sum of $15,380,920, covering 217 miles is for morpieev covering 217 miles is for improvement to secondary roads system.

Bargaining Sought By Brotherhood

For the fifth time in nine years the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is making an attempt to unseat the Railroad Industrial Union as the representative union of the firemen, engineers and hostlers on the Western Maryland Railway.

The BLF&E has petitioned the National Mediation Board for an election among the three classes of employes to allow them to choose the union they want.

Elmer E. Davis, president of the Railroad Industrial Union, which has headquarters in the Clark-Keating Building, received notice of the action yesterday from E. C. Thompson, secretary of the National Mediation Board.

District 50 Selected

Davis recalled that in 1945 the firemen, engineers and hostlers chose District 50, of the United Mine Workers as its representative and bargaining agent.

He said the BLF&E attempted to get on the ballot but was barred by the board.

In 1947 there was an election upon the petition of the BLF&E and the Railroad Industrial Union was placed on the ballot as a new organization.

The RIU was chosen by the majority of the three groups of employes.

The brotherhood petitioned again in 1949 and in 1951 and was granted elections only to lose to the RIU.

In 1952 the brotherhood petitioned, but the board turned down the request for an election on the grounds that the two-year period between elections had not passed.

Statement Asked

Davis said the board has requested G. R. Haworth, vice president and general manager of the railroad to submit the number of employes in each classification on the entire system.

Haworth was invited to submit any statement he may care to with respect to the matter.

Davis will also submit a statement concerning this latest application.

The BLF&E informed the board that there was a "representation dispute" on the railroad among these employes, according to the application submitted by the brotherhood chairman, H. E. Gilbert.

Davis said the next step will find the board sending a mediator here to investigate the situation to determine if there is sufficient ground for a hearing.

If there are sufficient grounds, a hearing will be held and the board will then rule whether there is ample cause to hold an election, Davis added.

Draft Boards Induct Eight

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of Cumberland draft boards, has released the list of registrants slated to report today in Fairmont (W. Va.) for induction into the armed forces.

Leaving Selective Services headquarters on the second floor of the Post Office building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus will be:

Board 28—James Thomas Stafford, 307 Footer Place; Thomas Bernard Wigger, 535 Henderson Avenue, and Thomas Henry Connor, 220 Fulton Street.

Board 29—George Elliott Geatz, 11 South Smallwood Street; Ellis Porman Wisler Jr., Ellerslie; David Lewis Kendall Jr., also of Ellerslie; Howard Clark Longerbeam, Baltimore, formerly of LaVale, and Dale Thomas Hounshell, Mansfield, Ohio, formerly of Cresaptown.

There are only about two publishing houses in the United States engaged in the printing of the special "sight-saving" books.

They are the Stanwix House of Pittsburgh and the American Printing House for the Blind, at Louisville, Ky. The number of children in county schools who require these special books are few in comparison with the enrollment.

A spokesman for the Board of Education pointed out that many of the schools do not require the use of this type of books and those pupils, ranging through the twelve grades, who need them are scattered throughout the county.

One Big Factor Motivates ODM

Office of Defense Mobilization is one of those agencies which must deal in terms of probabilities regarding the nation's status from an economic and productive point of view. As do military planners, the economic strategists of ODM must come up with a number of strategic plans which take into account various sets of eventualities. The plans must be ready to go because there will be so little time in which to prepare.

The fourth annual report covering the state of the union in terms of economic defense showed some good spots and some soft ones. Approximately 75 per cent of all plants which could be considered vital industries have been built in dispersed areas. This has two salutary effects. In addition to decentralizing industry on the map, such a move tends to shore up the basic economy of additional areas.

The stockpiling program is going along fairly well. "Minimum" goals have been met in slightly less than half of a list of more than 75 strategic items, and the country is more or less halfway stockpiled on the remainder. Mindful of the backing and filling and general confusion which accompanied price and wage controls of World War II, the ODM has drafted legislation to slap a 90-day freeze on wages and prices in the event of an emergency.

The basic assumption under which the ODM works is that the Soviet threat hasn't abated. In viewing the unpopular aspects of any program which visualizes placing this free-wheeling economy under arbitrary restriction, it is necessary to continue to refer back to this one factor to maintain a proper perspective.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Philosophy Of Policy

To all appearances, the American foreign policy is fluid, a response to the challenges of the Soviet Universal State. This particularly seems so when, with a sudden gust, we are shifted from the "cold war" to "peaceful co-existence," with hardly time to catch our breath. And while we are pondering over what "peaceful co-existence" may mean, Red China roundly slaps our faces by announcing the conviction for espionage of 13 American prisoners-of-war, who should have been exchanged under the terms of the truce of Panmunjom.

John Foster Dulles once stated the basic philosophy of our foreign policy in these terms:

". . . Today there rests upon us, to a unique degree, the threefold task of providing insurance against another world war; of demonstrating the good fruits of freedom which undermine the rule of despots by contrast; and of providing a major part of the effort required for the healthy growth of underdeveloped areas."

This threefold task is a huge enterprise for any nation, no matter how large or how strong. To provide insurance against another war may mean that we have to be permanently on a war footing, or that we have to allay the fears of or appease an enemy. Weaving among these alternatives is no light task for any secretary of state as long as the initiative is held by the enemy. When he loses the initiative, it could be possible to adopt a more fixed course. If it is correct that the Chinese Communists arrogantly blundered in the matter of the 13 prisoners-of-war, it might be possible for the United States to regain and hold the initiative.

Secretary of State Dulles feels apparently that as the threat is not temporary, seizing on casual errors will not aid us. He said:

"The threat we face is not one that can be adequately dealt with on an emergency basis. It is a threat that may long persist. Our policies must be adapted to this basic fact."

This general attitude was repeated in his recent Chicago speech when he warned of the perils of the Russian "peaceful co-existence" campaign. The sudden spell of hope that vast changes within Russia will in any way change their policy has little basis in theory or fact. Actually, Dulles practically says this in the article from which I quote:

"The Soviet menace does not reflect the ambitions of a single ruler, and cannot be measured by his life expectancy. There is no evidence that basic Soviet policies have been changed with the passing of Stalin. Indeed, the Berlin conference of last February gave positive evidence to the contrary. The Soviet Communists have always professed that they are planning for what they call 'an entire historical era.' "

In Marxist terms, "an entire historical era" could be a thousand years more or less, for it represents a civilization from its enunciation (circa 1848), to its settlement in an area (1917), to its development as a universal state (now in process), to its decay and supplementation by another historic era. The Marxist believes that his system represents the millennium; that he has not yet moved into his system but is in the preliminary stages of socialism.

What are we to do? Are we to wait until an empire is formed which can engulf the entire human race or are we to catch it by its Achilles' heel and destroy it? Dulles realistically describes the peril:

". . . About 10,000,000 men are regularly under arms, with many more trained millions in reserve. This land force occupies a central position which permits of striking at any one of about 20 countries along a perimeter of some 20,000 miles. It is supplemented by increasing air power, equipped with atomic weapons, able to strike through northern Arctic routes which bring our industrial areas in range of quick attack.

"The threat is not merely military. The Soviet rulers dispose throughout the world of the apparatus of international communism. It operates with trained agitators and a powerful propaganda organization . . ."

It would seem reasonable, in view of the philosophy of our policy, that the time has come to accept the challenge and to seize the initiative. The place destined for a test of strength between the United States and the Soviet Universal State is Red China. All events indicate that the stage is being set for a test of arms in that area.

McCarthy Attack Indicates Ike's Prestige Is Down

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Something serious has happened to the Republican party and President Eisenhower's prestige as its leader—or else the politicians wouldn't feel so free to attack the man in the White House. That's the customary behavior of an opposition when the politicians conclude that a president's popularity is waning.

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who was elected as a Republican four years ago, says that in the 1952 campaign Mr. Eisenhower "misrepresented the facts time and again" so now the Oregon senator will help the Democrats take control of the Senate in January.

Paul Butler, newly chosen chairman of the Democratic National Committee, says Mr. Eisenhower is incapable of uniting the country and that his military background makes it impossible to come to grips with the problems of the day and make a competent president.

McCarthy Latest Attacker

Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, who was elected in 1952 as a Republican, now criticizes President Eisenhower as having deceived the people in that presidential campaign. Mr. McCarthy declares that Mr. Eisenhower promised to fight Communists in the United States but now "congratulates the senators who hold up the work" of his committee which has been endeavoring to expose Communist activity.

The Wisconsin senator says his committee work has been frustrated for approximately ten months. The sessions were indeed halted when the secretary of the army and a group of administration officials in a secret meeting decided to try to discredit the Wisconsin senator by issuing an attack on the activities of Roy Cohn and other staff members.

From that time on Senator McCarthy had to give his time to a defense of himself rather than to the main work of his committee. When the television hearings on the Cohn-Schine-Stevens case were finished, Senator Flanders of Vermont began immediately his movement to get the Senate to "censure" Senator McCarthy.

There are, of course, many arguments being made that the executive agencies can handle the Communist problem alone, but the FBI's chief and others, including Vice President Nixon, have asserted that it is not a job for the executive branch alone, and that congressional committees can do effective work in supplementing the executive departments. Alger Hiss, for instance, was exposed by a House investigating committee.

In any event, Senator McCarthy feels that his work has been obstructed by the Eisenhower administration's influences. He might better have taken a more constructive view of what has happened since he started the movement to discover the responsibility for promoting Major Peress, who invoked the Fifth Amendment in answering a questionnaire before being promoted. The Wisconsin senator might have pointed with pride to the recent statement made by Secretary of Defense Wilson concerning changes and improvements in Army methods of handling Communists which have taken place as a consequence of the Peress case which Senator McCarthy had publicized.

Most all of the Wisconsin senator's supporters in the Senate and many of his close friends today were astonished at his attack on President Eisenhower. They felt it was a tactless move and they took it as the action of a man embittered by the supposed activity of the President and members of his staff in the last few months against the Wisconsin senator, culminating in what Senator McCarthy felt was a studied insult — the issuance last week of a public statement of congratulation commending the work of Senator Watkins as chairman of the committee which recommended censure.

Grave Political Rebellion

The friends of the senator from Wisconsin feel that this was "hitting a man when he is down" and that somebody gave Mr. Eisenhower bad advice in urging him to get into the fight when only a few days before the President had said to the press the censure case was a Senate problem.

If it were merely one senator or his bitter speeches, it would be an ephemeral controversy. But the issue of the missing Korean War prisoners is an old one and it has produced quite a following for Senator McCarthy, apart from his crusade about Communists in government. He made it the principal point in his television speech in answer to former President Truman just after the Harry Dexter White case was exposed in 1953. The facts, of course, about the missing airmen have been known here for some time without any action being taken before the U.N. or elsewhere until news about sentencing the airmen as spies came out a couple of weeks ago.

All this is a grave political rebellion for the Eisenhower administration to cope with and it will not be overcome nor will harmony be restored if the President heeds the advice of those who think he should be carrying on a feud with Senator Knowland and others in the party who happen to disagree with him on the best ways of fighting Communist imperialism.

It's Little Things That Count In Sparing Your Back

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Backache is not a disease but a symptom produced by a variety of conditions affecting the spine. When pain is located in the lower back, a mechanical cause is a good possibility. Such disorders usually stem from fatigue, injury, or prolonged stress and strain. In many instances, the cushioning material (disk) between the vertebrae is damaged.

Disturbances of the lower part often are associated with painful spasm of the muscles in this area. Bending forward aggravates distress because movement tends to stretch the fibers but bending backward brings relief. This is why many victims prefer to sleep on the abdomen rather than on the side.

The sufferer feels better when sitting erect, more so when the knees are crossed or propped up as this keeps the pull of the muscles at a minimum. Conversely, bending over a wash basin is uncomfortable unless hips and knees are flexed. Sitting in the theater and driving an auto increase pain because knees and hips are extended. Coughing and sneezing also aggravate the condition.

Those who appreciate these mechanical factors are better able to live with their trouble. To spare the back, remember it is the little things that count.

There is no substitute for good posture. The shoulders should be held back, the abdomen in, and the knees bent slightly to relieve postural strain. A straight chair is preferred to overstuffed monstrosities and it is a must for those who spend several hours a day working at a desk. When driving, sit forward and don't slump. Keep the knees flexed somewhat when lying in bed.

Lifting with the back is taboo. Make the legs do the work by squatting before picking up an object from the floor. Many persons have the mistaken idea that the spine cannot be injured except by strain, blows, falls, or accidents. Some of the most severe backaches have followed bending at an odd angle.

In the housewife, lower backache may stem from fatigue. The structure rebels after weeks or months of heavy work. In this respect, pain is a manifestation of weakness and fatigue of overused muscles. Now and then, aching is traced to one leg being shorter than the other; the back muscles do their best to compensate for the irregularity but pain ensues when strain is too great.

Backache of mechanical origin generally is relieved when the cause is corrected. Rest also helps and pain killing drugs may be needed to hasten relaxation of muscle spasm.

If simple measures fail, it may be that a disk has slipped or ruptured, in which case surgery often is necessary. In others, there is degeneration or infection in the vertebrae. X-rays and other tests help to distinguish one cause from another.

CAN'T SLEEP MUCH

S. H. writes: Could there be a purely physiological reason for insomnia? I have no worries, health is good, and my bedroom is quiet and has adequate ventilation.

REPLY

Yes, as some persons do not require as much sleep as others do. The usual eight hours are not needed in such instances.

VISION NOT AFFECTED

M. R. writes: Does arcus senilis cause blindness eventually?

REPLY

No. This white ring, which develops on the edge of the cornea, is caused by degeneration of the fatty substances in this area. The condition is harmless and ranks with gray hair and wrinkles as a sign of aging.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

"Don't be foolish, my boy," counseled the father. "You seem to forget that imitation is the sincerest form of philately."

Clare Boothe Luce Urges Ike To Ask Italy's Prime Minister To Visit U. S.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce is urging Ike to invite Italy's Prime Minister Scelba to visit the U. S. A. Mrs. Luce believes such a trip would vastly increase Scelba's prestige, help his battle against the Reds, and that it would be disastrous if Marshal Tito came to the White House this spring while Scelba was forced to sit at home. . . . Ike's reaction is: "No more visitors." . . . He is so tired entertaining foreign visitors that last week he asked Secretary Dulles to discourage any more state visits until next summer. . . . But cheer up—the shah of Iran and his queen are already on their way. . . . British diplomats have reported that the Chinese Reds may be willing to release the 15 Americans involved in the phony spy charges, as part of a deal. The Reds have hinted they would free all the Americans if the U. S. A. will turn over all Chinese assets frozen in the United States belonging to Chinese living on the mainland.

Flat-Tops And Flat Budget

Despite Field Marshal Montgomery's blast against flat-tops, the new defense budget will authorize another supercarrier for the Navy. These new flat-tops are so big they can't sail through the Panama Canal but must steam all the way around South America to get from one ocean to the other. Furthermore, the Air Force warns that three Russian jets, equipped with radar, can spot every carrier in the Mediterranean within two hours. Despite this and budget-balancing, the admirals love their flat-tops—and will get a new one. . . . The Russians intend to make one more sensational move to frighten the West Germans into forgetting about an alliance with the West. Americar intelligence has learned that the Soviets soon will announce not only that a big army is to be raised in East Germany—but that it will be equipped with atomic weapons. Moscow is hoping the mere thought of atomic bombs close to West Germany will so terrorize Chancellor Adenauer's government that it will refuse to rearm. . . . Secretary of Commerce Weeks is pulling wires to abolish, or at least supervise," the Small Business Administration. One of the frankest disciples of big business, Weeks wants small business put under his domination, has been privately coaxing other cabinet officers and congressional leaders to support him. Weeks' staff has also conferred unofficially with the House Banking and Currency Committee staff about abolishing the Small Business Administration altogether.

NAM Man Of Year

Last week, the National Association of Manufacturers singled out Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks as "NAM's man of the year."

If you have studied what Mr. Weeks has done backstage in Washington, you can understand why. Among other things, he practiced the John Foster Dulles technique of trying to settle inter-cabinet feuds while other cabinet members were away.

While Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was in Rio de Janeiro, Secretary Dulles managed to sew up his plan for a huge new Marshall Plan for Asia—which Humphrey had opposed. And while Attorney General Brownell also was in Rio, and Assistant Attorney General Stanley Barnes was in California, Secretary Weeks tried to pull some fast footwork on the Justice Department.

What he tried to do was change the Sherman Anti-Trust Act to apply to labor unions.

This is something the Supreme Court has ruled against, but which Weeks has repeatedly worked for. Time after time he has used his influence to get the anti-trust laws revised so as to include labor unions. His cabinet colleague, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, has been vigorously opposed. So has Attorney General Brownell.

However, Weeks has tried to pressure an especially appointed committee studying the anti-trust laws to write an anti-labor provision into a new bill.

The other day, the secretary of commerce saw his great opportunity. Brownell's absence in Rio and Barnes' absence in California left mild-mannered Professor F. Chesterfield Oppenheim, chairman of the anti-trust study group, alone to face the powerful secretary of commerce.

Weeks practically moved his office into the Justice Department that week. He then proceeded to scare the meek and unsuspecting college professor with both blandishments and pressure.

In addition to bombarding Oppenheim with all the old arguments rejected by the anti-trust study group during the year, Weeks used his superior government rank to push him into submission.

Oppenheim, a man from the quiet, academic cloisters of the University of Michigan, had almost been worn down by the time Brownell and Barnes got back to rescue him from Weeks.

No wonder the National Association of Manufacturers honored Weeks as their "man of the year."

Why They Voted

There are interesting backstage reasons behind some of the GOP votes against censuring Senator McCarthy. Langer of North Dakota has always voted against every move to censure or discipline another senator. They tried to prevent Bill from taking his seat many years ago, and he votes against such moves instinctively. . . . Young, also of North Dakota, has been close to McCarthy through the Dan Rice grain operators and rye speculators whom both senators have defended. . . . Goldwater of Arizona has palled around with McCarthy at La Jolla Beach, Calif., where Goldwater spends about as much time as he does in Arizona.

General Collins' Task

By Joseph Alsop

SAIGON, Viet Nam

Here in southern Indochina there are a few months at most to glue something together that will hold against the strong pressure of communism's southward advance in Asia.

The attempt is being made, with a certain amiable desperation, by a model Franco-American partnership. The partners are the wise and high principled French commander, Gen. Ely, and his old friend, President Eisenhower's special envoy, Gen. Lawton Collins. Two men could not work together more closely; and this is just as well, for the odds against Collins and Ely are just about ten to one.

Two little incidents will help to convey the difficulties of their task. The first concerns a very high French official who was giving a very grand official dinner. The desert was a rich cake. There was a good deal of eyebrow raising when the cake appeared with its top beautifully decorated in pastry cook's curlicues with the word "peace"—the word the Communists here have inscribed on their propaganda banners and made, alas, almost their exclusive property.

All the same, the French official, not wanting to be against peace, said nothing until the same rather specialized decoration was applied in mayonnaise to a cold fish and in cut out truffles to a cold chicken. After the third dinner party with "peace" proclaimed from the platter, the official told his cook to stick to cooking and to leave the conversation to those at the table. The cook was not fired because he was a very good cook.

Not Funny

The incident is one of the current jokes of Saigon, but what it signifies is anything but comic. The cook, undoubtedly, was one of the millions of Vietnamese here in the south who have gone over or are inclined to go over to the Communists. The penetration is already very deep. Large areas of the country side are already in Communist hands, with all real authority lodged in the underground committees and courts of the Vietminh.

If this process of Communist penetration is not rapidly halted and reversed, the non-Communist government here in Saigon will soon be nothing but a shadow. All of which in turn gives point to incident number two, which was a visit by this reporter to the brother and chief personal advisor of the head of the present Vietnamese government, President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Mister Nhu, as the President's brother is called by the peculiar Vietnamese, name-system, is a slender, immensely polite man who looks as if he came, as in fact he does, from an ancient family of high mandarins. He lives in a way so humble as to be downright astonishing in Asia, where the brothers of heads of government are seldom found in little houses in back alleys. But Mr. Nhu is not really very humble.

The subject of our conversation was the most urgent problem here, the problem of the army. Since the Geneva accords were signed until only a few days ago, this country has been rent in twain and brought close to anarchy by the bitter, open, personal quarrel between President Diem and the vain, clever, ambitious army chief of staff, Gen. Hinh.

President Diem was virtually besieged in his palace. He only survived because he was given the most unqualified American support. Since the army is the sole effective instrument of authority in Viet Nam, the army-government quarrel opened the way for enormous Communist gains. Largely by the efforts of Generals Ely and Collins, however, Gen Hinh has now been got out of Saigon and removed from the army command. Thus the opportunity now exists to bind up the old wounds, and begin in earnest the gigantic task of restoring order and halting Communist penetration.

No Great Hurry

The only trouble was, Mr. Nhu did not see the thing that way. The army needed to be purged and handed over to the favorites of President Diem. An army, anyway, was for defending frontiers. A new civilian system of administering the countryside had to be created, out of nothing to be sure. There was no great hurry because "the people of Viet Nam are for us."

Such were the themes of Mr. Nhu. The policy he described was certain to renew the old feud with the army with redoubled fury, and so to give the Communists unchallengeable control of south Viet Nam within a few months. But Mr. Nhu continued to insist, with elegant blandness, that his brother President Diem really had a duty to cut off his nose to spite his face.

Being an ardent nationalist under a strong colonial regime does not conduce, unfortunately, to political realism. And besides having to struggle with those who will not see the plain facts before their eyes, Generals Ely and Collins must also struggle with a quite remarkable collection of special interests, several of them with private armed forces.

One Big Factor Motivates ODM

Office of Defense Mobilization is one of those agencies which must deal in terms of probabilities regarding the nation's status from an economic and productive point of view. As do military planners, the economic strategists of ODM must come up with a number of strategic plans which take into account various sets of eventualities. The plans must be ready to go because there will be so little time in which to prepare.

The fourth annual report covering the state of the union in terms of economic defense showed some good spots and some soft ones. Approximately 75 per cent of all plants which could be considered vital industries have been built in dispersed areas. This has two salutary effects. In addition to decentralizing industry on the map, such a move tends to shore up the basic economy of additional areas.

The stockpiling program is going along fairly well. "Minimum" goals have been met in slightly less than half of a list of more than 75 strategic items, and the country is more or less halfway stockpiled on the remainder. Mindful of the backing and filling and general confusion which accompanied price and wage controls of World War II, the ODM has drafted legislation to slap a 90-day freeze on wages and prices in the event of an emergency.

The basic assumption under which the ODM works is that the Soviet threat hasn't abated. In viewing the unpopular aspects of any program which visualizes placing this free-wheeling economy under arbitrary restriction, it is necessary to continue to refer back to this one factor to maintain a proper perspective.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Philosophy Of Policy

To all appearances, the American foreign policy is fluid, a response to the challenges of the Soviet Universal State. This particularly seems so when, with a sudden gust, we are shifted from the "cold war" to "peaceful co-existence," with hardly time to catch our breath. And while we are pondering over what "peaceful co-existence" may mean, Red China roundly slaps our faces by announcing the conviction for espionage of 13 American prisoners-of-war, who should have been exchanged under the terms of the truce of Panmunjom.

John Foster Dulles once stated the basic philosophy of our foreign policy in these terms:

". . . Today there rests upon us, to a unique degree, the threefold task of providing insurance against another world war; of demonstrating the good fruits of freedom which undermine the rule of despots by contrast; and of providing a major part of the effort required for the healthy growth of underdeveloped areas."

This threefold task is a huge enterprise for any nation, no matter how large or how strong. To provide insurance against another war may mean that we have to be permanently on a war footing, or that we have to allay the fears of or appease an enemy. Weaving among these alternatives is no light task for any secretary of state as long as the initiative is held by the enemy. When he loses the initiative, it could be possible to adopt a more fixed course. If it is correct that the Chinese Communists arrogantly blundered in the matter of the 13 prisoners-of-war, it might be possible for the United States to regain and hold the initiative.

Secretary of State Dulles feels apparently that as the threat is not temporary, seizing on casual errors will not aid us. He said:

"The threat we face is not one that can be adequately dealt with on an emergency basis. It is a threat that may long persist. Our policies must be adapted to this basic fact."

This general attitude was repeated in his recent Chicago speech when he warned of the perils of the Russian "peaceful co-existence" campaign. The sudden spell of hope that vast changes within Russia will in any way change their policy has little basis in theory or fact. Actually, Dulles practically says this in the article from which I quote:

"The Soviet menace does not reflect the ambitions of a single ruler, and cannot be measured by his life expectancy. There is no evidence that basic Soviet policies have been changed with the passing of Stalin. Indeed, the Berlin conference of last February gave positive evidence to the contrary. The Soviet Communists have always professed that they are planning for what they call 'an entire historical era.'"

In Marxist terms, "an entire historical era" could be a thousand years more or less, for it represents a civilization from its enunciation (circa 1848), to its settlement in an area (1917), to its development as a universal state (now in process), to its decay and supplementation by another historic era. The Marxist believes that his system represents the millennium; that he has not yet moved into his system but is in the preliminary stages of socialism.

What are we to do? Are we to wait until an empire is formed which can engulf the entire human race or are we to catch it by its Achilles' heel and destroy it? Dulles realistically describes the peril:

". . . About 10,000,000 men are regularly under arms, with many more trained millions in reserve. This land force occupies a central position which permits of striking at any one of about 20 countries along a perimeter of some 20,000 miles. It is supplemented by increasing air power, equipped with atomic weapons, able to strike through northern Arctic routes which bring our industrial areas in range of quick attack.

"The threat is not merely military. The Soviet rulers dispose throughout the world of the apparatus of international communism. It operates with trained agitators and a powerful propaganda organization . . ."

It would seem reasonable, in view of the philosophy of our policy, that the time has come to accept the challenge and to seize the initiative. The place destined for a test of strength between the United States and the Soviet Universal State is Red China. All events indicate that the stage is being set for a test of arms in that area.

Disturbances of the lower part often are associated with painful spasm of the muscles in this area. Bending forward aggravates distress because movement tends to stretch the fibers but bending backward brings relief. This is why many victims prefer to sleep on the abdomen rather than on the side.

The sufferer feels better when sitting erect, more so when the knees are crossed or propped up as this keeps the pull of the muscles at a minimum. Conversely, bending over a wash basin is uncomfortable unless hips and knees are flexed. Sitting in the theater and driving an auto increase pain because knees and hips are extended. Coughing and sneezing also aggravate the condition.

Those who appreciate these mechanical factors are better able to live with their trouble. To spare the back, remember it is the little things that count.

There is no substitute for good posture. The shoulders should be held back, the abdomen in, and the knees bent slightly to relieve postural strain. A straight chair is preferred to overstuffed monstrosities and it is a must for those who spend several hours a day working at a desk. When driving, sit forward and don't slump. Keep the knees flexed somewhat when lying in bed.

Lifting with the back is taboo. Make the legs do the work by squatting before picking up an object from the floor. Many persons have the mistaken idea that the spine cannot be injured except by strain, blows, falls, or accidents. Some of the most severe backaches have followed bending at an odd angle.

In the housewife, lower backache may stem from fatigue. The structure rebels after weeks or months of heavy work. In this respect, pain is a manifestation of weakness and fatigue of overused muscles. Now and then, aching is traced to one leg being shorter than the other; the back muscles do their best to compensate for the irregularity but pain ensues when strain is too great.

Backache of mechanical origin generally is relieved when the cause is corrected. Rest also helps and pain killing drugs may be needed to hasten relaxation of muscle spasm.

If simple measures fail, it may be that a disk has slipped or ruptured, in which case surgery often is necessary. In others, there is degeneration or infection in the vertebrae. X-rays and other tests help to distinguish one cause from another.

CAN'T SLEEP MUCH

S. H. writes: Could there be a purely physiological reason for insomnia? I have no worries, health is good, and my bedroom is quiet and has adequate ventilation.

REPLY

Yes, as some persons do not require as much sleep as others do. The usual eight hours are not needed in such instances.

VISION NOT AFFECTED

M. R. writes: Does arcus senilis cause blindness eventually?

REPLY

No. This white ring, which develops on the edge of the cornea, is caused by degeneration of the fatty substances in this area. The condition is harmless and ranks with gray hair and wrinkles as a sign of aging.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Addie Williams, of the Theater Guild, is trying to nail down the rumor that Yma Sumac, the Peruvian all-range songbird, is intent upon forming a quartet. It will be known, of course, as the "Inca Spots!"

"I was with MacArthur when he landed on Leyte," boasted a depositor to Banker Rod MacLean. "Oho," chortled MacLean, "working for the Leyte's Home Journal, no doubt."

George Ansbarry tells about a 12-year-old boy who was passionately devoted to his stamp album until the kid next door began collecting stamps, too. "He buys every stamp I do," the 12-year-old complained to his father, "and has taken all the fun out of it for me. I'm quitting."

"Don't be foolish, my boy," counseled the father. "You seem to forget that imitation is the sincerest form of philately."

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce is urging Ike to invite Italy's Prime Minister Scelba to visit the U. S. A. Mrs. Luce believes such a trip would vastly increase Scelba's prestige, help his battle against the Reds, and that it would be disastrous if Marshal Tito came to the White House this spring while Scelba was forced to sit at home. . . . Ike's reaction is: "No more visitors." . . . He is so tired entertaining foreign visitors that last week he asked Secretary Dulles to discourage any more state visits until next summer. . . . But cheer up—the shah of Iran and his queen are already on their way. . . . British diplomats have reported that the Chinese Reds may be willing to release the 15 Americans involved in the phony spy charges, as part of a deal. The Reds have hinted they would free all the Americans if the U. S. A. will turn over all Chinese assets frozen in the United States belonging to Chinese living on the mainland.

Flat-Tops And Flat Budget

Despite Field Marshal Montgomery's blast against flat-tops, the new defense budget will authorize another supercarrier for the Navy. These new flat-tops are so big they can't sail through the Panama Canal but must steam all the way around South America to get from one ocean to the other. Furthermore, the Air Force warns that three Russian jets, equipped with radar, can spot every carrier in the Mediterranean within two hours. Despite this and budget-balancing, the admirals love their flat-tops—and will get a new one. . . . The Russians intend to make one more sensational move to frighten the West Germans into forgetting about an alliance with the West. American intelligence has learned that the Soviets soon will announce not only that a big army is to be raised in East Germany—but that it will be equipped with atomic weapons. Moscow is hoping the mere thought of atomic bombs close to West Germany will so terrorize Chancellor Adenauer's government that it will refuse to rearm. . . . Secretary of Commerce Weeks is pulling wires to abolish, or at least supervise," the Small Business Administration. One of the frankest disciples of big business, Weeks wants small business put under his domination, has been privately coaxing other cabinet officers and congressional leaders to support him. Weeks' staff has also conferred unofficially with the House Banking and Currency Committee staff about abolishing the Small Business Administration altogether.

NAM Man Of Year

Last week, the National Association of Manufacturers singled out Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks as "NAM's man of the year."

If you have studied what Mr. Weeks has done backstage in Washington, you can understand why. Among other things, he practiced the John Foster Dulles technique of trying to settle inter-cabinet feuds while other cabinet members were away.

While Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was in Rio de Janeiro, Secretary Dulles managed to sew up his plan for a huge new Marshall Plan for Asia—which Humphrey had opposed. And while Attorney General Brownell also was in Rio, and Assistant Attorney General Stanley Barnes was in California, Secretary Weeks tried to pull some fast footwork on the Justice Department.

What he tried to do was change the Sherman Anti-Trust Act to apply to labor unions.

This is something the Supreme Court has ruled against, but which Weeks has repeatedly worked for. Time after time he has used his influence to get the anti-trust laws revised so as to include labor unions. His cabinet colleague, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, has been vigorously opposed. So has Attorney General Brownell.

However, Weeks has tried to pressure an especially appointed committee studying the anti-trust laws to write an anti-labor provision into a new bill.

The other day, the secretary of commerce saw his great opportunity. Brownell's absence in Rio and Barnes' absence in California left mild-mannered Professor F. Chesterfield Oppenheim, chairman of the anti-trust study group, alone to face the powerful secretary of commerce.

Weeks practically moved his office into the Justice Department that week. He then proceeded to scare the meek and unsuspecting college professor with both blandishments and pressure.

In addition to bombarding Oppenheim with all the old arguments rejected by the anti-trust study group during the year, Weeks used his superior government rank to push him into submission.

Oppenheim, a man from the quiet, academic cloisters of the University of Michigan, had almost been worn down by the time Brownell and Barnes got back to rescue him from Weeks.

No wonder the National Association of Manufacturers honored Weeks as their "man of the year."

Why They Voted

There are interesting backstage reasons behind some of the GOP votes against censuring Senator McCarthy. Langer of North Dakota has always voted against every move to censure or discipline another senator. They tried to prevent Bill from taking his seat many years ago, and he votes against such moves instinctively. . . . Young, also of North Dakota, has been close to McCarthy through the Dan Rice grain operators and rye speculators whom both senators have defended. . . . Goldwater of Arizona has palled around with McCarthy at La Jolla Beach, Calif., where Goldwater spends about as much time as he does in Arizona.

General Collins' Task

By Joseph Alsop

SAIGON, Viet Nam

Here in southern Indochina there are a few months at most to glue something together that will hold against the strong pressure of communism's southward advance in Asia.

The attempt is being made, with a certain amiable desperation, by a model Franco-American partnership. The partners are the wise and high principled French commander, Gen. Ely, and his old friend, President Eisenhower's special envoy, Gen. Lawton Collins. Two men could not work together more closely; and this is just as well, for the odds against Collins and Ely are just about ten to one.

Two little incidents will help to convey the difficulties of their task. The first concerns a very high French official who was giving a very grand official dinner. The desert was a rich cake. There was a good deal of eyebrow raising when the cake appeared with its top beautifully decorated in pastry cook's curlicues with the word "peace"—the word the Communists here have inscribed on their propaganda banners and made, alas, almost their exclusive property.

All the same, the French official, not wanting to be against peace, said nothing until the same rather specialized decoration was applied in mayonnaise to a cold fish and in cut out truffles to a cold chicken. After the third dinner party with "peace" proclaimed from the platter, the official told his cook to stick to cooking and to leave the conversation to those at the table. The cook was not fired because he was a very good cook.

Not Funny

The incident is one of the current jokes of Saigon, but what it signifies is anything but comic. The cook, undoubtedly, was one of the millions of Vietnamese here in the south who have gone over or are inclined to go over to the Communists. The penetration is already very deep. Large areas of the country side are already in Communist hands, with all real authority lodged in the underground committees and courts of the Vietminh.

If this process of Communist penetration is not rapidly halted and reversed, the non-Communist government here in Saigon will soon be nothing but a shadow. All of which in turn gives point to incident number two, which was a visit by this reporter to the brother and chief personal advisor of the head of the present Vietnamese government, President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Mister Nhu, as the President's brother is called by the peculiar Vietnamese, name-system, is a slender, immensely polite man who looks as if he came, as in fact he does, from an ancient family of high mandarins. He lives in a way so humble as to be downright astonishing in Asia, where the brothers of heads of government are seldom found in little houses in back alleys. But Mr. Nhu is not really very humble.

The subject of our conversation was the most urgent problem here, the problem of the army. Since the Geneva accords were signed until only a few days ago, this country has been rent in twain and brought close to anarchy by the bitter, open, personal quarrel between President Diem and the vain, clever, ambitious army chief of staff, Gen. Hinh.

President Diem was virtually besieged in his palace. He only survived because he was given the most unqualified American support. Since the army is the sole effective instrument of authority in Viet Nam, the army-government quarrel opened the way for enormous Communist gains. Largely by the efforts of Generals Ely and Collins, however, Gen Hinh has now been got out of Saigon and removed from the army command. Thus the opportunity now exists to bind up the old wounds, and begin in earnest the gigantic task of restoring order and halting Communist penetration.

No Great Hurry

The only trouble was, Mr. Nhu did not see the thing that way. The army needed to be purged and handed over to the favorites of President Diem. An army, anyway, was for defending frontiers. A new civilian system of administering the countryside had to be created, out of nothing to be sure. There was no great hurry because "the people of Viet Nam are for us."

Such were the themes of Mr. Nhu. The policy he described was certain to renew the old feud with the army with redoubled fury, and so to give the Communists unchallengeable control of south Viet Nam within a few months. But Mr. Nhu continued to insist, with elegant blandness, that his brother President Diem really had a duty to cut off his nose to spite his face.

Being an ardent nationalist under a strong colonial regime does not conduce, unfortunately, to political realism. And besides having to struggle with those who will not see the plain facts before their eyes, Generals Ely and Collins must also struggle with a quite remarkable collection of special interests, several of them with private armed forces.

Johnson Is Found Guilty Of Second Degree Murder In W. Va. Shotgun Slaying

Faces Maximum Sentence Of 8 Years For Shooting 17-Year-Old Ohio Youth

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — A Randolph County jury today convicted Edgar Burton Johnson, 34, of second degree murder in the death of a Cleveland, Ohio, youth.

Johnson was convicted in the shotgun slaying of Richard E. Liller, 17, last Sept. 14. The jury deliberated about two hours.

Liller was shot as he stood on a highway with a group of young men who had accompanied him to Randolph County from Thomas, where he had been visiting relatives.

During the trial, Johnson testified that he did not shoot into the group, as the state contended. He said he fell and his gun went off harmlessly into the air.

Dr. Frank Beckel, a pathologist formerly on the staff of an Elkins hospital, said he examined Liller's body soon after the shooting and found about 40 neck perforations but no exit wounds and no lead pellets.

Had the shotgun been loaded with rock salt, he told the jury, the substance would have been absorbed by the victim's body.

Defense counsel moved that the verdict be set aside. Sentencing was deferred pending hearing on the motion. Second degree murder carries a penalty of 5 to 8 years imprisonment.

No date has been set for the trials of two other men indicted on charges of aiding and abetting in the murder. They are William Joseph Johnson, 30, a brother of Edgar, and Garnett Wilfong, 40.

1954 Deer Kill In Hardy County Second In State

MOOREFIELD — Hardy County's deer kill for the 1954 season totaled 1811 as compared with 1638 last year. Surprisingly more bucks were killed than does with 961 bucks reported and 837 does. Thirteen were unidentified. A total of 1703 kills were checked at Hardy County checking stations with the rest checked in adjoining counties although killed in Hardy County. Only Pocahontas with 1857 exceeded the Hardy County count.

The kill reported in nearby counties were Hampshire 1395, Grant 1353, Mineral 1002, Pendleton 667, Morgan 200 and Berkeley 105.

The preseason publicity given as to the number of deer in Hardy County accounted for the large kill this year as hunters came in from all over the state as well as out of the state.

School Attendance Record Remains High In Grant Co.

PETERSBURG — Grant County schools maintained over 93 per cent attendance during the three-month period which ended November 22 reports Jane Vossler, county attendance director. The county high schools at Bayard and Petersburg compiled a 94.45 per cent for the period while the 11 elementary schools had a 92.99 per cent average.

Bayard Grade School had the best percentage in attendance for the three-month period. This school is under the supervision of M. F. White and had the enviable mark of 96.6 per cent followed by Dorcas with 96 per cent; Bayard High School 95.9 per cent; Petersburg Grade with 95.6 per cent and Johnson Run 95.5 per cent in that order.

Eight of the 13 county schools were above the average mark compiled by the overall average. In addition to the five listed above other schools over the 93.215 mark were Bergdoll with 95.3 per cent, Town Hill, 95.1 per cent and Mt. Storm 93.7.

The gross enrollment of the 13 schools of Grant County is 2,114 pupils. The larger group of students are enrolled in the eleven elementary school, where 1,333 pupils are on the books. There are 781 pupils in the two high schools.

"These percentage figures compare very favorably with our three-month mark of last year," added the attendance director, who pointed out that a mark of 93.4 was maintained for the same period a year ago.

Turkey Dinner Opens Church Fund Campaign

MOOREFIELD — Approximately 150 members were present at the Firemen's Hall, guests of the Presbyterian Church for turkey dinner. This dinner was the beginning of the campaign for a building fund and ever member canvass of the church.

Earl B. Thrush, general chairman, was master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers as well as members of various committees and the canvass teams. S. L. Dodd gave the Objective of the Church. Mrs. R. E. Fisher presented selected high lights from the nearly two hundred years of history showing how service and sacrifice had go into the building of the Church to this point.

John McNeill, superintendent of the Sunday School and chairman of the educational committee for the drive, presented the needs of the church. He brought out the crowded condition of the Sunday School, showing how important it was to have more room for religious activities. Donald Baker told how the plan for additional space had slowly developed and grown until it reached the present moment. Mr. Thrush explained the canvass and Dr. Alastair Love spoke on "Making a Pledge," stressing the need for a sacrificial gift and not just a token gift.

Richard Morgan, pastor of the church, gathered together all of the presentations in his few closing remarks.

The canvass of members began on Friday and by the end of this week, the drive will be over.

Members of the Fire Company Auxiliary served the dinner for the Presbyterians.

Street said it would take more than 30 years to visit all Lions clubs if one were visited daily. He said the prime objects of the Lions International is the obligation to youth, to the betterment of international relations and for fellowship.

The guests were entertained by the Wardensville Quartette, members of the Wardensville Lions club, Johnny Bowers, Clifton Jenkins, Ed Frye and Ervin Emswiler. Betty and Wade Barr, two school girl singers, led the guests in singing Christmas songs.

All members of the Lions club were urged to donate blood at the Bloodmobile.

Johnson Is Found Guilty Of Second Degree Murder In W. Va. Shotgun Slaying

Faces Maximum Sentence Of 8 Years For Shooting 17-Year-Old Ohio Youth

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP) — A Randolph County jury today convicted Edgar Burton Johnson, 34, of second degree murder in the death of a Cleveland, Ohio, youth.

Johnson was convicted in the shotgun slaying of Richard E. Liller, 17, last Sept. 14. The jury deliberated about two hours.

Liller was shot as he stood on a highway with a group of young men who had accompanied him to Randolph County from Thomas, where he had been visiting relatives.

During the trial, Johnson testified that he did not shoot into the group, as the state contended. He said he fell and his gun went off harmlessly into the air.

Dr. Frank Beckel, a pathologist formerly on the staff of an Elkins hospital, said he examined Liller's body soon after the shooting and found about 40 neck perforations but no exit wounds and no lead pellets.

Had the shotgun been loaded with rock salt, he told the jury, the substance would have been absorbed by the victim's body.

Defense counsel moved that the verdict be set aside. Sentencing was deferred pending hearing on the motion. Second degree murder carries a penalty of 5 to 8 years imprisonment.

No date has been set for the trials of two other men indicted on charges of aiding and abetting in the murder. They are William Joseph Johnson, 30, a brother of Edgar, and Garnett Wilfong, 40.

1954 Deer Kill In Hardy County Second In State

MOOREFIELD — Hardy County's deer kill for the 1954 season totaled 1811 as compared with 1638 last year. Surprisingly more bucks were killed than does with 961 bucks reported and 837 does. Thirteen were unidentified. A total of 1703 kills were checked at Hardy County checking stations with the rest checked in adjoining counties although killed in Hardy County. Only Pocahontas with 1857 exceeded the Hardy County count.

The kill reported in nearby counties were Hampshire 1395, Grant 1353, Mineral 1002, Pendleton 667, Morgan 200 and Berkeley 105.

The preseason publicity given as to the number of deer in Hardy County accounted for the large kill this year as hunters came in from all over the state as well as out of the state.

Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State College, guest speaker at the meeting, spoke on "The West Virginia Teacher and Professional Relations."

The meeting was opened with invocation by Rev. Donald D. Anderson, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Keyser.

Dr. Church told his audience that the professional attitude of the teacher must be correct, and in discussing the trials, he said that the juvenile problem should be a challenge for a teacher at any time, and added that teachers should examine themselves to see that they are the right kind of persons to be teachers. His talk was interesting and well received.

Redlegs Obtain Jablonski, Staley In Trade With Cardinals

St. Louis Gets Frank Smith, Relief Star

Other Deals Hanging Fire; Giants, Chisox, Phils Seek Baumholtz

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds today finally completed the deal that got under way last week in Houston when the Redlegs handed over Frank Smith, ace relief pitcher, for third baseman Ray Jablonski, Pitcher Gerry Staley and a minor league player to be named later.

The trade actually was completed yesterday in New York during the major league convention but announcement was held up. It may be that this was not the only trade consummated at the baseball convention in New York and it is entirely possible that other announcements will follow shortly.

At least a half dozen player deals are hanging fire including one between the Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Athletics. General Manager Frank Lane of the White Sox, last of the baseball executives to entrain for home, at this moment is mulling over a proposition given him by Business Manager Parke Carroll of the Athletics.

Trades Considered

1. Kansas City's Bob Finigan, third baseman, to Chicago for pitcher Sandy Consuegra and veteran third baseman George Kell.

2. Brooklyn's second baseman Junior Gilliam and pitcher Bob Milliken to Cincinnati for outfielder Wally Post, pitcher Fred Baczewski and catcher Hobie Landrith.

3. New York Yankees' third baseman Gil McDougald to Boston for veteran lefthander Mel Parnell.

4. The sale of Brooklyn third baseman Billy Cox to either Cleveland or Baltimore.

5. The sale of Chicago Cub outfielder Frank Baumholtz to either the Philadelphia Phillies or New York Giants for a little over the waiver price of $10,000.

The Cubs' efforts to sell Baumholtz to the White Sox collapsed today when he was withdrawn from the waiver list because two National League clubs—the Phillies and Giants—claimed him for the $10,000 price.

Three Clubs Seek Frankie

The Phillies want the left handed hitting Baumholtz to play right field against righthanded pitching and are willing to match the White Sox' offer of $15,000. The Giants, however, would like to have Baumholtz, too, for pinch hitting purposes, and would top Philadelphia's offer for the 36-year-old flychaser.

Acquisition of Baumholtz would pave the way for the Giants to peddle Bill Taylor to the Phillies, who have offered $45,000 for the young lefthanded slugger. The Giants vision Dusty Rhodes and Baumholtz as a fearsome pinch hitting pair.

Matz Accepts Bid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 8 (AP) — Rugged Paul Matz, Notre Dame's co-captin and end, accepted a bid today to play with the Yankees in the annual Blue-Gray football game here Christmas day.

His selection completed the 24-man Blue roster, giving the North one of the most powerful squads ever rounded up, Blue-Gray officials said.

Thirty-Five Deer Bagged On Third Day

Total Soars To 194, 32 Less Than 1953

Thirty-five deer fell before the blazing firearms wielded by hunters yesterday in Allegany County, increasing the total to 194 for the first three days of Maryland's six-day season which ends Saturday at sunset.

This year's total is running 32 below the 226 reported killed during the first three days of the 1953 season. In the remaining three days the nimrods must slay 85 whitetails, an average of slightly more than 28 a day to equal last year's record kill of 279.

Tops 1953 Third Day

Yesterday's score was better than the third day of 1953 when 25 bucks were bagged in Allegany County.

If ideal hunting conditions prevail the remainder of the week it is believed last year's mark will be topped. Only seven bucks were killed on Thursday in 1953 and 46 during the last three days of the season, the slump being attributed to miserable weather.

Fourteen deer were checked at the LaVale State Police barracks yesterday and ten were killed in Allegany County. All 14 checked at Shipway's Inn, Green Ridge, fell in Allegany, as did the nine reported by Lewis' Store, Oldtown. Hancock drew a blank but Ankeney's Store, Clear Spring, and the Westernport Police Station had one each.

Late Tuesday Kills

LEWIS' STORE (1) — Richard Weimer, Valley Road, 3-120, Green Ridge.

Station	Total
State Police	10
Lewis Store	9
Shipway's Inn	14
Westernport	1
Hancock	0
Clear Spring	1
Total	35

Frostburg American Legion, tied with Purple Heart Club for third place, hosts the Mt. Savage V.F.W. while Purple Heart visits Hann's Tavern.

Redlegs Obtain Jablonski, Staley In Trade With Cardinals

St. Louis Gets Frank Smith, Relief Star

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds today finally completed the deal that got under way last week in Houston when the Redlegs handed over Frank Smith, ace relief pitcher, for third baseman Ray Jablonski, Pitcher Gerry Staley and a minor league player to be named later.

The trade actually was completed yesterday in New York during the major league convention but announcement was held up. It may be that this was not the only trade consummated at the baseball convention in New York and it is entirely possible that other announcements will follow shortly.

At least a half dozen player deals are hanging fire including one between the Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Athletics. General Manager Frank Lane of the White Sox, last of the baseball executives to entrain for home, at this moment is mulling over a proposition given him by Business Manager Parke Carroll of the Athletics.

Trades Considered

Following is a list of trades which currently can be considered in the pending stage.

1. Kansas City's Bob Finigan, third baseman, to Chicago for pitcher Sandy Consuegra and veteran third baseman George Kell.

2. Brooklyn's second baseman Junior Gilliam and pitcher Bob Milliken to Cincinnati for outfielder Wally Post, pitcher Fred Baczewski and catcher Hobie Landrith.

3. New York Yankees' third baseman Gil McDougald to Boston for veteran lefthander Mel Parnell.

4. The sale of Brooklyn third baseman Billy Cox to either Cleveland or Baltimore.

5. The sale of Chicago Cub outfielder Frank Baumholtz to either the Philadelphia Phillies or New York Giants for a little over the waiver price of $10,000.

The Cubs' efforts to sell Baumholtz to the White Sox collapsed today when he was withdrawn from the waiver list because two National League clubs—the Phillies and Giants—claimed him for the $10,000 price.

Three Clubs Seek Frankie

The Phillies want the left handed hitting Baumholtz to play right field against righthanded pitching and are willing to match the White Sox' offer of $15,000. The Giants, however, would like to have Baumholtz, too, for pinch hitting purposes, and would top Philadelphia's offer for the 36-year-old flychaser.

Acquisition of Baumholtz would pave the way for the Giants to peddle Bill Taylor to the Phillies, who have offered $45,000 for the young lefthanded slugger. The Giants vision Dusty Rhodes and Baumholtz as a fearsome pinch hitting pair.

Matz Accepts Bid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 8 (AP) — Rugged Paul Matz, Notre Dame's co-captin and end, accepted a bid today to play with the Yankees in the annual Blue-Gray football game here Christmas day.

His selection completed the 24-man Blue roster, giving the North one of the most powerful squads ever rounded up, Blue-Gray officials said.

Thirty-Five Deer Bagged On Third Day

Total Soars To 194, 32 Less Than 1953

Thirty-five deer fell before the blazing firearms wielded by hunters yesterday in Allegany County, increasing the total to 194 for the first three days of Maryland's six-day season which ends Saturday at sunset.

This year's total is running 32 below the 226 reported killed during the first three days of the 1953 season. In the remaining three days the nimrods must slay 85 whitetails, an average of slightly more than 28 a day to equal last year's record kill of 279.

Tops 1953 Third Day

Yesterday's score was better than the third day of 1953 when 25 bucks were bagged in Allegany County.

If ideal hunting conditions prevail the remainder of the week it is believed last year's mark will be topped. Only seven bucks were killed on Thursday in 1953 and 46 during the last three days of the season, the slump being attributed to miserable weather.

Fourteen deer were checked at the LaVale State Police barracks yesterday and ten were killed in Allegany County. All 14 checked at Shipway's Inn, Green Ridge, fell in Allegany, as did the nine reported by Lewis' Store, Oldtown. Hancock drew a blank but Ankeney's Store, Clear Spring, and the Westernport Police Station had one each.

Late Tuesday Kills

LEWIS' STORE (1) — Richard Weimer, Valley Road, 3-120, Green Ridge.

Here's a summary of yesterday's Allegany County deer kills:

Station	Total
State Police	10
Lewis Store	9
Shipway's Inn	14
Westernport	1

State Milers Will Argue Racing Dates

Bowie Planning Fight To Retain Fall Meet

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission hears tomorrow the annual arguments from Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie on what dates the tracks want for 1955.

And as usual, Bowie will be fighting off efforts of the two other tracks to take away the closing days in the fall. They are desirable because racing has ended by then in New Jersey and more money comes into Maryland.

Bowie already has lost its privilege of opening the racing season in the spring which it did for many years. Laurel had the first crack this year.

The three tracks split 100 days and always it has been up to the racing commission to set them despite pleas that the managements reach agreement beforehand.

Laurel has renewed its request of last year that it be allowed all its 33 days starting in November.

Pimlico proposed a schedule having Bowie run entirely in the Spring. The other two would operate in both seasons with Pimlico getting the last days in both spring and fall.

Bowie officials are girded to oppose such suggestions and argue it is entitled to the early and late dates.

Snead Favored In Miami Open

$10,000 Event Gets Under Way Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP)—Sammy Snead was the favorite of the bystander—and some professional golfers—to win the $10,000 Miami Open golf championship which begins Thursday at the Miami Springs course.

He jumped into the place partly because of the startling five-under-par shot yesterday in spite of 35-mile-per-hour gusts of wind in a pre-tournament match for professionals. His nearest rival, Bob Rosburg, San Francisco, was four strokes behind.

And the Old Slammer was at the top of the list partly because of his past record in competing for the Miami Open title. He has won the championship five times.

The $10,000 tournament has attracted a classy field, including Chick Harbert, holder of the PGA title, and Arnold Palmer, National amateur champion.

Detroit Vagabonds Meet Old Gs Here Sunday

Locals Open 3rd Year At SS. Peter-Paul Gym

King Boring and his Vagabond Kings of Detroit, will be the first home opponent of the Cumberland Old Germans basketball team on SS. Peter and Paul court Sunday night at 8:45 o'clock.

In watching an exhibition of basketball game ala Vagabond style you may see a ball being dropkicked from three-quarter court; basketballs being juggled while the game is supposed to be in progress; players sitting down on the floor sending the ball around with short, quick passes and other crowd pleasing antics.

The Vagabonds Roster

The roster of the Michigan team includes Jimmy Doyle, Central Michigan College; Bill Ausmus, Western Kentucky; Bobby Dukes, of Atlanta, Ga.; Bob Keanum, also of Atlanta; Norman Tomassini, former Michigan Normal star, and Billy Saade of Georgia. The lineup is subject to change, according to an advance press notice.

King Boring was co-owner of the Detroit franchise in the old National Basketball League and operated the club under the name of the Detroit Gems. Boring sold his franchise to Max Winter of Minneapolis and that was the start of the now famous Minneapolis Lakers. The Vagabond Kings have been a road team since 1947.

Player-Manager Bob Pence sent his Old Germans squad through a workout last night at the "Y" court and another drill is carded tonight at 9 o'clock.

Pence plans to carry a squad of six players. Those who fail to make the team will make up the Old Germans Juniors and will play in preliminary games at 7:30 o'clock.

Third Year For Old G's

The Old G's will represent Cumberland for the third season. They've won 21 and lost eight in the last two years.

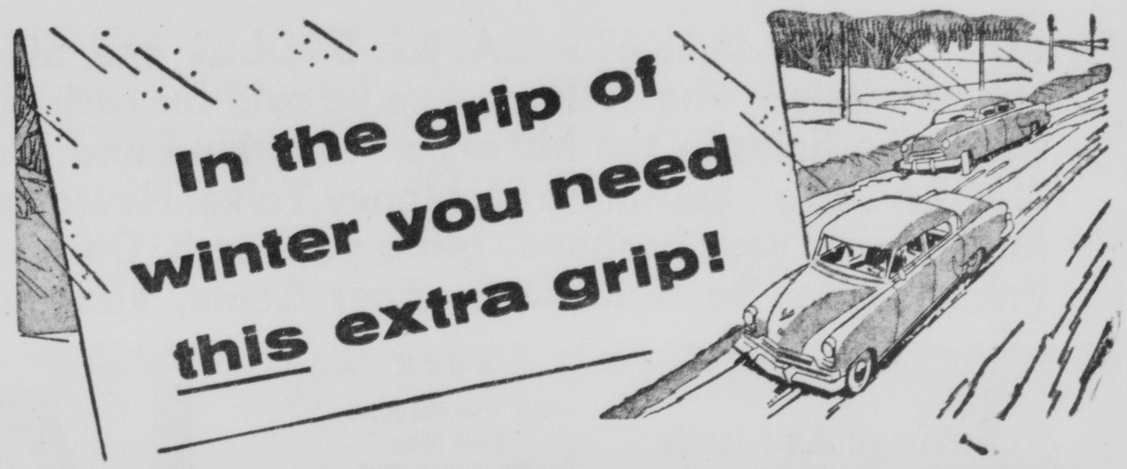

In the final game of the 1953 season the Detroit Vagabonds gave the Old G's a 90-72 beating but none of those players, namely, Bill Spivey, Mike and Steve Magula, Stan Kukura and Jimmy Atkins appear on the roster slated to appear here Sunday.

The local squad composed of Pence, George Geatz, Phil Hall, former Kentucky High School player, Roy Lester, Clyde Green, former West Virginia U. and Wheeling Blues player and now Romney High coach, and Jim Fahey, defeated Berlin, Pa., 101-53 on November 29, at Berlin. All were with the Old Germans last season except Hall and Green.

Turley, Hunter Sign

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (INS) — Righthanded pitcher Bob Turley and Shortstop Billy Hunter signed their 1954 New York Yankee contracts today.

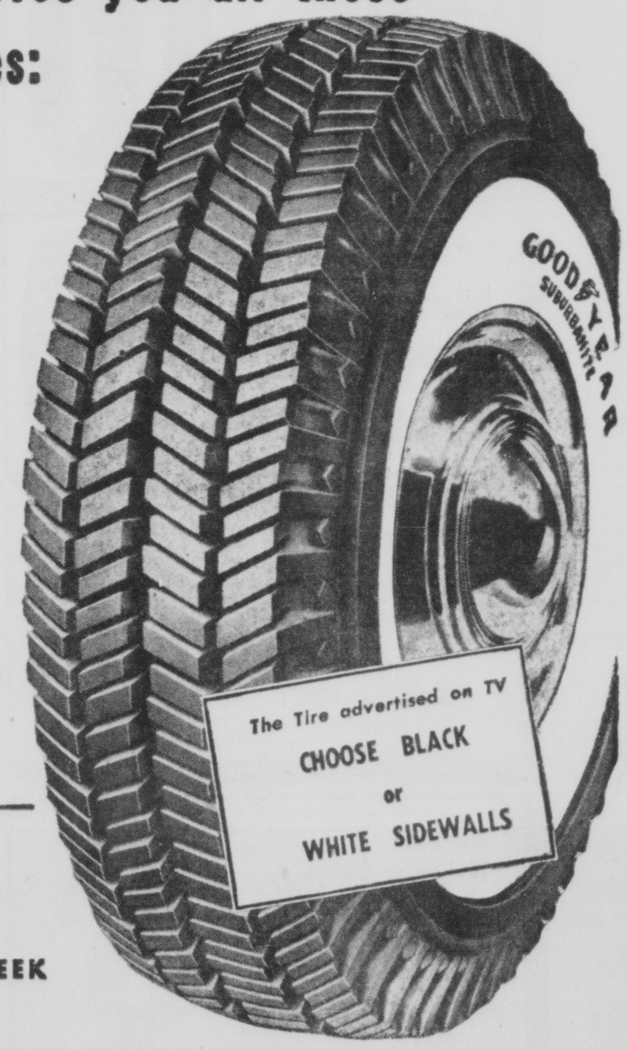

Turley and Hunter were the two key players acquired by the Yankees a few weeks ago in a gigantic 18-player trade with the Baltimore Orioles.

State Milers Will Argue Racing Dates

Bowie Planning Fight To Retain Fall Meet

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission hears tomorrow the annual arguments from Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie on what dates the tracks want for 1955.

And as usual, Bowie will be fighting off efforts of the two other tracks to take away the closing days in the fall. They are desirable because racing has ended by then in New Jersey and more money comes into Maryland.

Bowie already has lost its privilege of opening the racing season in the spring which it did for many years. Laurel had the first crack this year.

The three tracks split 100 days and always it has been up to the racing commission to set them despite pleas that the managements reach agreement beforehand.

Laurel has renewed its request of last year that it be allowed all its 33 days starting in November.

Pimlico proposed a schedule having Bowie run entirely in the Spring. The other two would operate in both seasons with Pimlico getting the last days in both spring and fall.

Bowie officials are girded to oppose such suggestions and argue it is entitled to the early and late dates.

Snead Favored In Miami Open

$10,000 Event Gets Under Way Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP)—Sammy Snead was the favorite of the bystander—and some professional golfers—to win the $10,000 Miami Open golf championship which begins Thursday at the Miami Springs course.

He jumped into the place partly because of the startling five-under-par shot yesterday in spite of 35-mile-per-hour gusts of wind in a pre-tournament match for professionals. His nearest rival, Bob Rosburg, San Francisco, was four strokes behind.

And the Old Slammer was at the top of the list partly because of his past record in competing for the Miami Open title. He has won the championship five times.

The $10,000 tournament has attracted a classy field, including Chick Harbert, holder of the PGA title, and Arnold Palmer, National amateur champion.

Detroit Vagabonds Meet Old Gs Here Sunday

Locals Open 3rd Year At SS. Peter-Paul Gym

King Boring and his Vagabond Kings of Detroit, will be the first home opponent of the Cumberland Old Germans basketball team on SS. Peter and Paul court Sunday night at 8:45 o'clock.

In watching an exhibition of basketball game ala Vagabond style you may see a ball being drop-kicked from three-quarter court; basketballs being juggled while the game is supposed to be in progress; players sitting down on the floor sending the ball around with short, quick passes and other crowd pleasing antics.

The Vagabonds Roster

The roster of the Michigan team includes Jimmy Doyle, Central Michigan College; Bill Ausmus, Western Kentucky; Bobby Dukes, of Atlanta, Ga.; Bob Keanum, also of Atlanta; Norman Tomassini, former Michigan Normal star, and Billy Saade of Georgia. The lineup is subject to change, according to an advance press notice.

King Boring was co-owner of the Detroit franchise in the old National Basketball League and operated the club under the name of the Detroit Gems. Boring sold his franchise to Max Winter of Minneapolis and that was the start of the now famous Minneapolis Lakers. The Vagabond Kings have been a road team since 1947.

Player-Manager Bob Pence sent his Old Germans squad through a workout last night at the "Y" court and another drill is carded tonight at 9 o'clock.

Pence plans to carry a squad of six players. Those who fail to make the team will make up the Old Germans Juniors and will play in preliminary games at 7:30 o'clock.

Third Year For Old G's

The Old G's will represent Cumberland for the third season. They've won 21 and lost eight in the last two years.

In the final game of the 1953 season the Detroit Vagabonds gave the Old G's a 90-72 beating but none of those players, namely, Bill Spivey, Mike and Steve Magula, Stan Kukura and Jimmy Atkins appear on the roster slated to appear here Sunday.

The local squad composed of Pence, George Geatz, Phil Hall, former Kentucky High School player, Roy Lester, Clyde Green, former West Virginia U. and Wheeling Blues player and now Romney High coach, and Jim Fahey, defeated Berlin, Pa., 101-53 on November 29, at Berlin. All were with the Old Germans last season except Hall and Green.

Turley, Hunter Sign

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (INS) — Righthanded pitcher Bob Turley and Shortstop Billy Hunter signed their 1954 New York Yankee contracts today.

Turley and Hunter were the two key players acquired by the Yankees a few weeks ago in a gigantic 18-player trade with the Baltimore Orioles.

Radio And Television

This Award Business

I don't usually pay a great deal of attention to television awards, most of them publicity-seeking dodges on the part of the award-givers, but the latest 'Sylvania Awards, one of the better known ones, are so dumbfounding that some comment ought to be made.

In its four-year history, the committee had given its grand award to only one program, "Victory at Sea," which deserved it. This week it gave the second grand award to "Medic" which no more belongs in the same class with "Victory at Sea" than does Pinky Lee. "This year," said the award committee, "a comparative newcomer deeply impressed us with the worth of its contents, the impact of its presentation and the dignity of its purpose."

Oh, come on! Dignity of purpose? The chief purpose of "Medic" is to cut down the ratings of its husky competitor on CBS, "I Love Lucy." This is smart commercial operation, but I don't know that dignity of purpose is quite the phrase for it.

Worth of content, eh? Well, I have here an editorial from the Allegheny County Medical Society Bulletin, commenting on "Medic's" first show concerning a mother who died of leukemia while giving birth to a baby. "From a dramatic point of view, this is no doubt a stirring and exciting story. There is however a serious doubt in our minds as to whether it delivers a medical message or whether it imparts any particularly valuable medical information. There is even a more serious doubt as to what useful purpose is served by acquainting a patient whose end is not actually in sight with the fatal nature of his disease. No one knows or can tell how long a leukemic patient undergoing treatment may live. It seems to us unnecessarily brutal and cruel to disturb such a patient's peace of mind in pronouncing such a dreadful sentence when there is no actual need of it."

As to the committee's other finding, the 'impact of its presentation," I have no quarrel at all. It has a punch like Rocky Graziano's, but I don't know that this entitles it to any grand awards. As testimony to its wallop, I have here a letter from a doctor written just after "Medic" opened:

"I watched the show with the same horrified fascination that you described, but in addition with a considerable amount of trepidation. I anticipated what would happen during the next four days. During the several days following the show, each and every patient who came to my office who had seen the production asked me whether he or she had leukemia. Three patients, who were pregnant and under the care of obstetricians, called to ask me if all pregnant women developed leukemia. The husband of a patient who had recently died of leukemia went into a state of shock and profound collapse for approximately 24 hours. The family of a man who had died of leukemia eight days before this production was considerably disturbed. I myself re-lived several traumatic experiences I have had in the management of leukemic patients."

Impact, in short, it's got. Well, the first "Medic" was designed to create an uproar to call attention to the show. Subsequent shows have been a little milder—but not much. Every one I've seen has been a tear-jerker whose essential mawkishness is not at all concealed by the clipped "Dragnet"-type dialogue of the doctors. One was about an unwed mother which contained a bit of a sermon about the need for prenatal care, and I suppose this had some educational value.

Another one, a truly heart-breaking one, was about a boy with a cleft palate who was jeered at by the boys in his school because of his speech impediment. It brought to mind a truly fine program on speech impediment, CBS's "The Search" program on the cause and cure of stuttering. This was genuine education; as educational television, "Medic" is as phony as a $3 bill. ("The Search" got a Sylvania award but not the grand prize.)

Another Sylvania award went to "Disneyland" and it was made after the very first show, which was largely an exploratory show designed to tell the people what the program held for the future. I yield to no one in my admiration for Walt Disney but I think this was a little premature. The committee could have waited until next year when Mr. Disney had proved himself—as he undoubtedly will—but the temptation to get a little publicity by giving him an award was apparently too great.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

WILLINGLY TAKE LOSS

OFTEN apparent defeat can be victory. That can be the case in a match point duplicate tournament, in which your objective is a score that compares favorably with what others do on the same deal. If, as declarer, you decide that others in the same contract are likely to be beaten two tricks, it is smart to select a playing plan which assures your defeat by one while abandoning all hope of making the contract.

	♠ Q 8 3 2 ♥ K 9 8 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ K J 3
♠ 9 7 6 4 ♥ 7 5 4 ♦ 10 3 ♣ 10 9 7 4	N W E S	♠ A K J 5 ♥ A Q J 2 ♦ J 9 ♣ A 6 5
	♠ 10 ♥ 10 6 3 ♦ A K 7 6 5 2 ♣ Q 8 2

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

As East scored the spade K and A, North noticed West's high-low 7 and 6. So, instead of taking the J with his Q, he let it win, playing the 8. This assured the impossibility of West gaining the lead when there was a fourth round of spades and prevented West from leading through his heart K.

Such a lead, North reckoned, would give the defenders at least two heart tricks. These, plus three in spades and one in clubs, would beat the No Trump game at least two tricks. But, if he could keep West out of the lead, a heart offering couldn't whipsaw him. His play abandoned all hope of making the contract—which would have been unsound in rubber bridge.

In the match point tournament, however, North estimated that some declarers would probably be set one and some two or more. He deliberately and willingly chose a one-trick set. In consequence, his pair tied with some rivals and beat others. This resulted in winning of the tournament by a bare margin of one match point.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 6 5 ♥ A J 2 ♦ K 10 8 2 ♣ A 8 7
♠ Q 9 4 ♥ Q 6 5 ♦ A Q J 7 ♣ Q 10 4	N W E S	♠ J 10 ♥ K 8 7 4 3 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 5 3 2
	♠ K 8 7 3 2 ♥ 10 9 ♦ 5 4 ♣ K J 9 6

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If West, who opened the bidding, leads the heart Q, how should South play for 4-Spades?

As to the committee's other finding, the vimpact of its presentation," I have no quarrel at all. It has a punch like Rocky Graziano's, but I don't know that this entitles it to any grand awards. As testimony to its wallop, I have here a letter from a doctor written just after "Medic" opened:

"I watched the show with the same horrified fascination that you described, but in addition with a considerable amount of trepidation. I anticipated what would happen during the next four days. During the several days following the show, each and every patient who came to my office who had seen the production asked me whether he or she had leukemia. Three patients, who were pregnant and under the care of obstetricians, called to ask me if all pregnant women developed leukemia. The husband of a patient who had recently died of leukemia went into a state of shock and profound collapse for approximately 24 hours. The family of a man who had died of leukemia eight days before this production was considerably disturbed. I myself re-lived several traumatic experiences I have had in the management of leukemic patients."

Impact, in short, it's got. Well, the first "Medic" was designed to create an uproar to call attention to the show. Subsequent shows have been a little milder—but not much. Every one I've seen has been a tear-jerker whose essential mawkishness is not at all concealed by the clipped "Dragnet"-type dialogue of the doctors. One was about an unwed mother which contained a bit of a sermon about the need for prenatal care, and I suppose this had some educational value.

Another one, a truly heart-breaking one, was about a boy with a cleft palate who was jeered at by the boys in his school because of his speech impediment. It brought to mind a truly fine program on speech impediment, CBS's "The Search" program on the cause and cure of stuttering. This was genuine education; as educational television, "Medic" is as phony as a $3 bill. ("The Search" got a Sylvania award but not the grand prize.)

Another Sylvania award went to "Disneyland" and it was made after the very first show, which was largely an exploratory show designed to tell the people what the program held for the future. I yield to no one in my admiration for Walt Disney but I think this was a little premature. The committee could have waited until next year when Mr. Disney had proved himself—as he undoubtedly will—but the temptation to get a little publicity by giving him an award was apparently too great.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

WILLINGLY TAKE LOSS

OFTEN apparent defeat can be victory. That can be the case in a match point duplicate tournament, in which your objective is a score that compares favorably with what others do on the same deal. If, as declarer, you decide that others in the same contract are likely to be beaten two tricks, it is smart to select a playing plan which assures your defeat by one while abandoning all hope of making the contract.

	♠ Q 8 3 2 ♥ K 9 8 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ K J 3
♠ 9 7 6 4 ♥ 7 5 4 ♦ 10 3 ♣ 10 9 7 4	N W E S	♠ A K J 5 ♥ A Q J 2 ♦ J 9 ♣ A 6 5
	♠ 10 ♥ 10 6 3 ♦ A K 7 6 5 2 ♣ Q 8 2

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

As East scored the spade K and A, North noticed West's high-low 7 and 6. So, instead of taking the J with his Q, he let it win, playing the 8. This assured the impossibility of West gaining the lead when there was a fourth round of spades and prevented West from leading through his heart K.

Such a lead, North reckoned, would give the defenders at least two heart tricks. These, plus three in spades and one in clubs, would beat the No Trump game at least two tricks. But, if he could keep West out of the lead, a heart offering couldn't whipsaw him. His play abandoned all hope of making the contract—which would have been unsound in rubber bridge.

In the match point tournament, however, North estimated that some declarers would probably be set one and some two or more. He deliberately and willingly chose a one-trick set. In consequence, his pair tied with some rivals and beat others. This resulted in winning of the tournament by a bare margin of one match point.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 6 5 ♥ A J 2 ♦ K 10 8 2 ♣ A 8 7
♠ Q 9 4 ♥ Q 6 5 ♦ A Q J 7 ♣ Q 10 4	N W E S	♠ J 10 ♥ K 8 7 4 3 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 5 3 2
	♠ K 8 7 3 2 ♥ 10 9 ♦ 5 4 ♣ K J 9 6

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If West, who opened the bidding, leads the heart Q, how should South play for 4-Spades?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Judge Joseph Mish Dies In Hagerstown

JUDGE JOSEPH D. MISH

Chief Of Circuit Was Hospitalized Two Weeks Ago

Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of the Fourth Judicial Circuit died last night in Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown following an illness of more than two weeks.

He had been in the hospital since the weekend of November 20, when he was stricken with two heart attacks. He had complained of being ill on his way back to Hagerstown from Baltimore where he had spent two weeks on the Baltimore City Court bench.

The 56-year-old jurist showed signs of improvement when he was first hospitalized, but grew worse during the past few days.

Judge Mish, a native of Hagerstown, was appointed to the bench in December 1940 by former governor Herbert R. O'Conor following the resignation of the late Judge Frank A. Wagaman.

Elected In 1942

He was elected to his first full 15-year term in the fall of 1942. Judge Mish attended Washington County schools, was a graduate of Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, Princeton University, 1921 and was awarded his law degree at the University of Maryland in 1926.

Shortly afterward he was admitted to the bar and became a partner of William Preston Lane Jr., who was to become Attorney General, and later governor.

He maintained this partnership until his elevation to the bench. Judge Mish was elected to the House of Delegates in 1930 and served as chairman of the Washington County delegation in 1931 and 1933 terms. He was elected to the State Senate in 1934 and while serving his second term was appointed to the bench.

Active In Party

A life-long Democrat, he was a former member of the Democratic State Central Committee of Washington County. He was a member of the Maryland Bar Association and the American Bar Association, and had served as president of the Washington County Bar Association.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Edith Mish, Judge Mish is survived by two sons, Joseph D. Mish Jr., and Frederick C. Mish; a brother, Frank W. Mish Jr., Maidstone-On-The-Potomac; and three sisters, Mrs. Jesse Franklin Hakes, Cooksville, Md.; Mrs. Elinor Graham, Freeport, Maine; and Mrs. Sarah Mish Medford, Hagerstown.

City Officials Ask Conference With Delegation

Allegany County legislators will arrange a conference with the Mayor and Council during the week of December 20, according to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

He said Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday requested the meeting with the delegation and Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Del. See said the meeting cannot easily be held before that time, since Sen. Kimble will be busy until next Thursday night in connection with the work of the Legislative Council of the General Assembly.

Mayor Eves explained yesterday afternoon that city officials want a general discussion of its possible legislative program.

One topic of discussion, he added, will be the effect of home rule upon the city's plans for financing the new water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant and any other possible bond issues which might be needed.

Community Chest Board Meeting Set

The Executive Committee of the Cumberland Community Chest will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. to prepare plans for the annual meeting in January.

Bowmans Addition Man Finds Loudspeakers

Loudspeakers lost from the Salvation Army's truck last week were recovered by Lester E. Smith, Bowmans Addition, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs.

He said Smith picked up the speakers a few minutes after they were lost on Valley Road last Thursday, and had been searching "lost and found" advertisements in order to locate the owner.

Valley Street Span Will Be Opened Friday

Restricted Use Is Slated Until Spring

Plans for opening the new Valley Street Bridge to traffic on a restricted basis during winter months were announced yesterday afternoon by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

He said arrangements were made at a conference with the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, contractor for the span, to open the bridge Friday at 4 p. m.

Prior to that time, he added, the contractor will erect caution signs at both approaches, notifying motorists to limit speed to 15 miles an hour.

The contractor some time ago completed laying the concrete deck of the new bridge but was unable to apply a two-inch bituminous "wearing course" to the slab, due to weather conditions.

During yesterday's conference, the city agreed to relieve the contractor of responsibility for traffic during the winter, and the city agreed to place temporary ramps at the approaches.

The span will be surfaced as soon as weather permits the blacktop to be laid next spring.

Mayor Eves said materials for lighting the span have arrived and will be installed in about a week.

He said the contractor will also apply the final coat of paint for the bridge next spring.

Arrangements for the limited use of the span were made at the conference attended by officials of the firm with Mayor Eves, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Murphy Store Employes Get Yule Bonus

Ninety-seven employes of the G. C. Murphy Company store here participated in the distribution yesterday of the firm's annual Christmas gift bonus.

The bonus is shared each year by all employes, except officers and others in executive capacities, who work 20 or more hours per week and who have completed at least six months' service.

Newly eligible employes receive $5, and amounts range up to $80 for those with 15 or more years of service. Eight local employes received the $80 maximum. A special Christmas gift also was sent to all company employes on military leave of absence.

Max Bastian, manager of the local store, said the plan has been in effect for more than 25 years. In announcing payment of the bonus, Bastian expressed his appreciation to employes at the store for their cooperation and service.

Several thousand employes in the company's 300 stores, the General Offices and Warehouse in McKeesport, Pa., and the Style Center in New York received cash bonuses totaling more than $300,000.

Light snow and sleet were falling in the general Cumberland area last night and highway travel on Route 40 east of here was reported slick in spots.

State Police also reported that snow was falling in Garrett County in the Grantsville area west of Frostburg. More was expected overnight as the Weather Bureau predicted the snow would be turning to rain with higher temperatures today.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford also reported slick spots on highways, but some areas, such as Romney, W. Va., had no rain or snow by late last night.

Senior Girl Scouts Form New Board

Group Will Plan Programs, Projects

A Senior Girl Scout planning board has been organized as a part of the Cumberland Girl Scout Council, in an effort to expand further, the growing interest of older girls in the Girl Scout program, Miss Olive Hurlburt, executive director, said yesterday.

Meeting at the Girl Scout House, the board held its first official session and organized.

There are three Senior Scout troops in the local council, Troop 15 at Cresaptown; Troop 21 at Fort Hill High School; and Troop 12 which meets at the Girl Scout House.

Elected representatives of these three troops comprise the Senior board. They are Darlene Lease and Shirley Twigg from Troop 15; Virginia Roland and Bonnie White from Troop 21, and Carol Matthews and Barbara Weimer from Troop 12.

Mrs. E. F. Brewer, program committee chairman for the Council, and Miss Hurlburt met with the new board.

Shirley Twigg was elected secretary and Darlene Lease was chosen chairman for the next meeting to be held January 7.

The board planned for a meeting of all Senior Girl Scouts for February, to be centered on a presentation and discussion of a bicycle trip as a Senior Scout activity.

A Christmas caroling group was discussed and plans for this event will be completed at troop meetings.

Other proposals before the board included a Senior Scout Day at established camp next summer; swimming lessons for those who want them, and a folk dance and square dance night.

This new planning board will be responsible, Miss Hurlburt outlined, for the full program of Senior Scout activities, conferences, and ideas for expansion. The board will also select Senior Scouts as candidates for regional conferences and international gatherings.

Two Brothers Die Instantly In Auto Crash

Third Hospitalized As Car Hits Pole

Two brothers were killed instantly and a third was injured about midnight Tuesday in an automobile accident on the west side of Green Ridge 18 miles east of Cumberland.

Dead are Robert Leroy Stewart, 39, of Mt. Airy, and Donovan Charles Stewart, 26, of RD 6, Westminster, in Carroll County.

Clyde Robert Stewart, 40, also of RD 6, Westminster, admitted to Memorial Hospital here with a fractured collarbone and other injuries, was discharged from the hospital yesterday afternoon.

He was asleep in the rear seat when the car crashed on Route 40 at a junction where a road leads to the old CCC camp. The three men were on a hunting trip.

First Of Season

The deaths were the first attributed to the Allegany County deer hunting season which opened Monday.

State Police said Robert Stewart, driving toward Hancock at a "high rate of speed," failed to negotiate a left curve near the old CCC camp and hit a C&P telephone pole broadside.

Trooper Donald R. Wade, who investigated with Trooper Robert D. Wolford, said the driver and Donovan Stewart also in the front seat, were thrown onto the highway. The 1949 sedan was demolished.

Suffer Fractured Skulls

Investigation disclosed the three hunters came to this area Monday and went back to Westminster. They returned Tuesday and apparently intended to spend the night in the car, according to Trooper Wade.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Robert Stewart's injuries included a fractured skull and crushed chest and pelvis. Donovan Stewart also sustained a skull fracture.

The bodies were taken to Westminster yesterday.

Bribe Probe Jury Calls 14 Witnesses

LA PLATA, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—The Charles County Grand Jury investigating reports of money-passing in the November election today summoned 14 new witnesses, apparently including some suggested by the FBI.

Eleven of them were heard today, with the remaining three booked for testimony tomorrow. All fourteen are Negro residents of the White Plains area, where the alleged money-passing occurred.

The grand jury probe was ordered after a story published by the Washington Post and Times Herald reported that eight Negro voters stated they had received small sums of money on election day from Republican politicians. State Sen. James B. Monroe was named in several of the statements.

Atty. Gen. Brownell ordered the FBI to look into the reports because the Charles County voting involved election of a congressman, Charles being part of the 5th District.

Three weeks after the election, U.S. Atty. George Cochran Doub of Baltimore turned over "about a dozen" names of prospective witnesses to States Atty. Charles T. Barbour of Charles County.

Doub said at the time that the data he gave Barbour amounted to a partial report on the FBI investigation. It contained "positive information" on election day money-passing, he added.

The grand jury resumed its session today after a recess of about two weeks.

Barbour was asked today if Sen. Monroe would appear before the jury. "The jury hasn't asked him yet," the prosecutor replied.

Monroe has declined specific comment on the allegations but has said he would be willing to explain his Nov. 2 "conduct" to any "proper authority at the proper time."

Celanese Union Asks Wage Talks

School Board Has Library Of 'Sight-Saving' Textbooks

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

A rather unusual small library of books with "sight-saving" features is maintained by the Allegany County Board of Education in order that pupils with impaired eyesight can be offered a more complete education.

The various volumes of subjects include mathematics, science, social studies, reading, literature and typing. And there are books for younger pupils, including "New Friends," "My Word Book," and "Think and Do Book."

The printed matter of the books is from two to three times the size of ordinary book type, and the subject matter is on yellow colored paper, which apparently is easier on the eyes.

Due to the enlarged size print, an ordinary classroom text book, "Story of Our America," included in one volume, has to be printed in three volumes in larger book form. Another example is a book, "Going Forward With Science," which comes in two volumes.

With the printed matter in larger type, the pupil who has impaired eyesight is able to read his lesson more easily and can keep up with the other members of the class.

This phase of the Special Education Department of the Board of Education was started about five years ago and was instituted by Dr. Ralph E. Kessler, former superintendent of special education, who now holds a similar position in Baltimore County.

Dr. Kessler also conducted a program on speech correction and hearing. In order to learn just who may need these special textbooks, Mrs. Dora Sweene, every other year, visits the county schools and makes a preliminary eye test of the pupils.

In the event a child is found to have impaired eyesight, the information is passed on to the parents who are requested to have the child's eyes examined by a physician. And it is upon recommendation of the physician that the Board of Education takes steps to put the special books into the child's hands.

They are charged to the child and the school and when the course or the textbook is finished the book is returned to the library for future use.

The Board also has a number of typewriters and instruction books for use of older students in academic studies. The letters of the

Filter Plant Project Now One-Third Done

Six Units Promised Within Six Weeks

Mayor Roy W. Eves was advised yesterday by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company that six of the 12 filters being modernized at the Lake Gordon filtration plant will be back in service within six weeks.

Work on the other six filters will proceed after the units now being reconditioned are placed back into service.

The construction firm reported the work is about a third done and that it will continue uninterrupted through the winter.

The job will include rehabilitating and housing the old filter units which were built in 1911, and the installation of electric-powered wash water facilities.

Make Good Progress

Since the work began in early fall, the company has uncovered six filter units, made necessary repairs to them and has made good progress on the construction of the brick building which will house the filters.

Most of the walls of the building are up, and steel recently arrived for the roof of the structure. It will be placed under roof as soon as sheeting arrives.

City workers at the filtration plant have been rehabilitating the wrought iron lateral pipes which are located at the bottom of the filter units, and the piping contractor is preparing pipe to replace laterals which could not be repaired.

To Be Modern Plant

When succeeding contracts are let to complete mechanizations of the plant and install contact basins which will remove most of the sediment from water before it hits the filters, Cumberland will have a completely modern filter plant.

The system will have a rated capacity of 18,000,000 gallons a day and can be operated under a 22,500,000 gallon daily load, since all are designed to operate at 25 per cent beyond rated capacity.

Plans have been prepared by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore, consulting engineer, who planned the six new filter units which were placed into service last July, and the sewage treatment plant which the city will begin building early next year.

Memorial Coins Are Available At Local Bank

An appropriate Christmas gift and collectors item for those persons who save coins is now available at the Liberty Trust Company in the form of the Carver-Washington Half Dollar.

This year, according to Sidney J. Phillips, president of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, the act of Congress which authorized the coinage of these half dollars expired and this is the last Christmas which these coins will be offered to the public.

The local bank has a limited supply of these half dollars available at 60 cents each. The face of the coin carries the likeness of two Negroes who were born slaves, Booker T. Washington, and George Washington Carver, and on the back of it is a statement which sums up the greatness of the country—"Freedom and Opportunity For All—Americanism."

Phillips stated that banks and trust companies throughout the United States have disposed of more of these half dollars than all other organizations combined, and that the officers of the Memorial were "grateful for the assistance given by this bank."

The contractor some time ago completed laying the concrete deck of the new bridge but was unable to apply a two-inch bituminous "wearing course" to the slab, due to weather conditions.

During yesterday's conference, the city agreed to relieve the contractor of responsibility for traffic during the winter, and the city agreed to place temporary ramps at the approaches.

The span will be surfaced as soon as weather permits the blacktop to be laid next spring.

Mayor Eves said materials for lighting the span have arrived and will be installed in about a week.

He said the contractor will also apply the final coat of paint for the bridge next spring.

Murphy Store Employes Get Yule Bonus

Ninety-seven employes of the G. C. Murphy Company store here participated in the distribution yesterday of the firm's annual Christmas gift bonus.

The bonus is shared each year by all employes, except officers and others in executive capacities, who work 20 or more hours per week and who have completed at least six months' service.

Newly eligible employes receive $5, and amounts range up to $80 for those with 15 or more years of service. Eight local employes received the $80 maximum. A special Christmas gift also was sent to all company employes on military leave of absence.

Max Bastian, manager of the local store, said the plan has been in effect for more than 25 years. In announcing payment of the bonus, Bastian expressed his appreciation to employes at the store for their cooperation and service.

Several thousand employes in the company's 300 stores, the General Offices and Warehouse in McKeesport, Pa., and the Style Center in New York received cash bonuses totaling more than $300,000.

Senior Girl Scouts Form New Board

Group Will Plan Programs, Projects

A Senior Girl Scout planning board has been organized as a part of the Cumberland Girl Scout Council, in an effort to expand further, the growing interest of older girls in the Girl Scout program, Miss Olive Hurlburt, executive director, said yesterday.

Meeting at the Girl Scout House, the board held its first official session and organized.

There are three Senior Scout troops in the local council, Troop 15 at Cresaptown; Troop 21 at Fort Hill High School; and Troop 12 which meets at the Girl Scout House.

Elected representatives of these three troops comprise the Senior board. They are Darlene Lease and Shirley Twigg from Troop 15; Virginia Roland and Bonnie White from Troop 21, and Carol Matthews and Barbara Weimer from Troop 12.

Mrs. E. F. Brewer, program committee chairman for the Council, and Miss Hurlburt met with the new board.

Shirley Twigg was elected secretary and Darlene Lease was chosen chairman for the next meeting to be held January 7.

The board planned for a meeting of all Senior Girl Scouts for February, to be centered on a presentation and discussion of a bicycle trip as a Senior Scout activity.

A Christmas caroling group was discussed and plans for this event will be completed at troop meetings.

Other proposals before the board included a Senior Scout Day at established camp next summer; swimming lessons for those who want them, and a folk dance and square dance night.

This new planning board will be responsible, Miss Hurlburt outlined, for the full program of Senior Scout activities, conferences, and ideas for expansion. The board will also select Senior Scouts as candidates for regional conferences and international gatherings.

Two Brothers Die Instantly In Auto Crash

Third Hospitalized As Car Hits Pole

Two brothers were killed instantly and a third was injured about midnight Tuesday in an automobile accident on the west side of Green Ridge 18 miles east of Cumberland.

Dead are Robert Leroy Stewart, 39, of Mt. Airy, and Donovan Charles Stewart, 26, of RD 6, Westminster, in Carroll County.

Clyde Robert Stewart, 40, also of RD 6, Westminster, admitted to Memorial Hospital here with a fractured collarbone and other injuries, was discharged from the hospital yesterday afternoon.

He was asleep in the rear seat when the car crashed on Route 40 at a junction where a road leads to the old CCC camp. The three men were on a hunting trip.

First Of Season

The deaths were the first attributed to the Allegany County deer hunting season which opened Monday.

State Police said Robert Stewart, driving toward Hancock at a "high rate of speed," failed to negotiate a left curve near the old CCC camp and hit a C&P telephone pole broadside.

Trooper Donald R. Wade, who investigated with Trooper Robert D. Wolford, said the driver and Donovan Stewart also in the front seat, were thrown onto the highway. The 1949 sedan was demolished.

Suffer Fractured Skulls

Investigation disclosed the three hunters came to this area Monday and went back to Westminster. They returned Tuesday and apparently intended to spend the night in the car, according to Trooper Wade.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Robert Stewart's injuries included a fractured skull and crushed chest and pelvis. Donovan Stewart also sustained a skull fracture.

The bodies were taken to Westminster yesterday.

Bribe Probe Jury Calls 14 Witnesses

LA PLATA, Md., Dec. 8 (AP)—The Charles County Grand Jury investigating reports of money-passing in the November election today summoned 14 new witnesses, apparently including some suggested by the FBI.

Eleven of them were heard today, with the remaining three booked for testimony tomorrow. All fourteen are Negro residents of the White Plains area, where the alleged money-passing occurred.

The grand jury probe was ordered after a story published by the Washington Post and Times Herald reported that eight Negro voters stated they had received small sums of money on election day from Republican politicians. State Sen. James B. Monroe was named in several of the statements.

Atty. Gen. Brownell ordered the FBI to look into the reports because the Charles County voting involved election of a congressman, Charles being part of the 5th District.

Three weeks after the election, U.S. Atty. George Cochran Doub of Baltimore turned over "about a dozen" names of prospective witnesses to States Atty. Charles T. Barbour of Charles County.

Doub said at the time that the data he gave Barbour amounted to a partial report on the FBI investigation. It contained "positive information" on election day money-passing, he added.

The grand jury resumed its session today after a recess of about two weeks.

Barbour was asked today if Sen. Monroe would appear before the jury. "The jury hasn't asked him yet," the prosecutor replied.

Monroe has declined specific comment on the allegations but has said he would be willing to explain his Nov. 2 "conduct" to any "proper authority at the proper time."

School Board Has Library Of 'Sight-Saving' Textbooks

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

A rather unusual small library of books with "sight-saving" features is maintained by the Allegany County Board of Education in order that pupils with impaired eyesight can be offered a more complete education.

The various volumes of subjects include mathematics, science, social studies, reading, literature and typing. And there are books for younger pupils, including "New Friends," "My Word Book," and "Think and Do Book."

The printed matter of the books is from two to three times the size of ordinary book type, and the subject matter is on yellow colored paper, which apparently is easier on the eyes.

Due to the enlarged size print, an ordinary classroom text book, "Story of Our America," included in one volume, has to be printed in three volumes in larger book form. Another example is a book, "Going Forward With Science," which comes in two volumes.

With the printed matter in larger type, the pupil who has impaired eyesight is able to read his lesson more easily and can keep up with the other members of the class.

This phase of the Special Education Department of the Board of Education was started about five years ago and was instituted by Dr. Ralph E. Kessler, former superintendent of special education, who now holds a similar position in Baltimore County.

Dr. Kessler also conducted a program on speech correction and hearing. In order to learn just who may need these special textbooks, Mrs. Dora Sweene, every other year, visits the county schools and makes a preliminary eye test of the pupils.

In the event a child is found to have impaired eyesight, the information is passed on to the parents who are requested to have the child's eyes examined by a physician. And it is upon recommendation of the physician that the Board of Education takes steps to put the special books into the child's hands.

They are charged to the child and the school and when the course or the textbook is finished the book is returned to the library for future use.

The Board also has a number of typewriters and instruction books for use of older students in academic studies. The letters of the

Six Units Promised Within Six Weeks

Mayor Roy W. Eves was advised yesterday by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company that six of the 12 filters being modernized at the Lake Gordon filtration plant will be back in service within six weeks.

Work on the other six filters will proceed after the units now being reconditioned are placed back into service.

The construction firm reported the work is about a third done and that it will continue uninterrupted through the winter.

The job will include rehabilitating and housing the old filter units which were built in 1911, and the installation of electric-powered wash water facilities.

Make Good Progress

Since the work began in early fall, the company has uncovered six filter units, made necessary repairs to them and has made good progress on the construction of the brick building which will house the filters.

Most of the walls of the building are up, and steel recently arrived for the roof of the structure. It will be placed under roof as soon as sheeting arrives.

City workers at the filtration plant have been rehabilitating the wrought iron lateral pipes which are located at the bottom of the filter units, and the piping contractor is preparing pipe to replace laterals which could not be repaired.

To Be Modern Plant

When succeeding contracts are let to complete mechanizations of the plant and install contact basins which will remove most of the sediment from water before it hits the filters, Cumberland will have a completely modern filter plant.

The system will have a rated capacity of 18,000,000 gallons a day and can be operated under a 22,500,000 gallon daily load, since all are designed to operate at 25 per cent beyond rated capacity.

Plans have been prepared by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore, consulting engineer, who planned the six new filter units which were placed into service last July, and the sewage treatment plant which the city will begin building early next year.

Memorial Coins Are Available At Local Bank

An appropriate Christmas gift and collectors item for those persons who save coins is now available at the Liberty Trust Company in the form of the Carver-Washington Half Dollar.

This year, according to Sidney J. Phillips, president of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, the act of Congress which authorized the coinage of these half dollars expired and this is the last Christmas which these coins will be offered to the public.

The local bank has a limited supply of these half dollars available at 60 cents each. The face of the coin carries the likeness of two Negroes who were born slaves, Booker T. Washington, and George Washington Carver, and on the back of it is a statement which sums up the greatness of the country — "Freedom and Opportunity For All—Americanism."

Phillips stated that banks and trust companies throughout the United States have disposed of more of these half dollars than all other organizations combined, and that the officers of the Memorial were "grateful for the assistance given by this bank."
